BAD NEWS about King George, the doctors' latest bulletin brings deepest anxiety. They do not dare attempt an operation that was contemplated, because of the King's weakness.

Insurance companies, charging 90 per cent to insure the King's life for a few weeks, evidently had information more exact than that given to the public by the doctors.

Another wild Wall Street day, lambs and speculators learning by experience.

It doesn't do the "sold out" gambler any good, but ancient wise ones say "the market has behaved well under the circumstances."

With a million ignoramuses buying without knowing why, and selling in panic, it is a marvel that conditions were not worse. But the flurry is not ended.

Atlantic City police found a dead man, very old, and near his body $100,000 of hoarded money, small bags filled with gold, crumpled, faded bank notes

The world, wondering much, thinking little, wonders "what comfort that old man could find in the money."

Ask some poor old man not yet dead, depending on cold charity or on relatives that are indifferent. He will tell you what comfort the old man of Atlantic City found in the possession of $100,000. The money made him independent, a FREE MAN. Poverty is slavery. Save something.

Will Rogers selects an "All-American team" of ability, as follows:

Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Lindbergh.

He probably leaves out the ablest man in the country, as yet unknown. That's fortunate, for it means we have reserves.

Rogers would have those five men run the country, "move Thanksgiving Day up to election and do away with elections entirely."

The plan would work, of course. The original John D. Rockefeller could have done the job alone when he was younger. He would have known how to select the men.

But the people must plan to govern themselves as babies must learn to walk, no matter how badly they do it at first. If you always hired a man to push your baby around in a wagon, the baby wouldn't develop

Thomas Moran, known to the police as "Red," killed two policemen. He felt that he had to live, crime was the path he chose. He killed two trying to remain alive.

Sentenced to the electric chair, "Red" will be killed in his turn, day after tomorrow. Keepers are watching him closely to thwart his attempts to kill himself.

First he killed that he might live. Now he tries to kill himself that the electric chair may not get him. Strange animals are human beings, from the gang man and his retail murders to the giant killer, Napoleon, who always carried poison with him.

Phillip Challenger, from Santa Barbara and Chicago, recently working as a Chicago reporter for $18 a week, now is planning to spend $1000 a day. His grandfather left him $6,000,000. Wiser than many, the young man decides to study archeology, and invites a scientist to accompany him. Of course he decides to kill big game and travel around the world. When in doubt, prosperous human beings, male and female, always seem to "kill big game."

If you heard that a young lion, inheriting money, immediately decided to kill big men, we would say: "Queer lion."

However, it is a providential atavistic impulse, dating far back. The right kind of man wanted to kill big animals because big animals menaced the existence of the human race a million years ago. They don't any more. Small microbes menace us now.

WOMAN IS SOUGHT AS LEADER

Brockton, Dec. 11—A woman who teaches grammar school pupils to steal and sends them to the stores to do shoplifting for her, was being sought today by the police of this city.

The search was begun after five girls, ranging in age from [illegible] to 14, had been arraigned today in juvenile court, charged with thefts from the counters of Main st. merchants. All of the youthful defendants were put on probation.

According to the police, the children have skillfully and systematic-

Wife Wins Cash of 'Rival'

Mrs. Agnes M. Franklin of Roxbury was awarded $5500 in her $25,000 alienation of affections suit against Mrs. Eva D. West of Wellington rd., Medford, in a sealed verdict handed down in Middlesex Superior Court today.

Mrs. West was [illegible] court when the verdict, reached [illegible], was read, but Mrs. Franklin and her husband, George J. Franklin, former [illegible] New York bus operator, were present.

The defendant, wife of Frank H. West, [illegible], insurance broker, the jury decided, alienated the affections of Franklin, with whom she was found in a raid on a Huntington ave. house, according to the testimony [illegible]

HUNT WALL ST. LOOT IN HUB

Search for a Boston man was begun today in connection with the larceny in New York of $168,000 in securities as a result of the statement made by William Turner of [illegible] st., Providence, one of two men held in $100,000 in New York.

Turner, arrested with George McFaul of Sherman ave., New Haven, when they tried to negotiate $68,[illegible] in stolen stock at the Bankers Trust Co., New York, declared he won the certificates in a dice game at a Boston hotel.

He named the man from whom he claimed to have won the stock during the dice game in Boston, and, police believe, the remainder of the stolen securities are in this [illegible]

Seven hundred shares of Montgomery-Ward stock were stolen from E. B. Smith & Co. of New York on September 10. No trace of it was received until Turner, a former broker, and McFaul, an automobile accessories dealer, appeared at the office

WIFE PUTS RUM RUNNER QUERIES TO BOARDMAN

Interrogatories asking Earl Griswold Boardman, Boston millionaire and convicted rum smuggler, if he is now in the liquor business, were filed in Suffolk Probate Court for his wife, Mrs. George Regina (Jean) Boardman, in their cross divorce suits in which each charge misconduct.

The divorce suits were filed last June, Mrs. Boardman naming Mrs. Edith Kravit of Brookline, and Boardman named John Reimer.

Boardman, who has homes in Boston and Mattapoisett, is credited with being worth $5,000,000 and last spring was fined $3000 in Federal District Court, Providence, on charges of conspiring with two coast guardsmen to smuggle liquor.

In the interrogatories Boardman is asked if he owns or did own any interest in the following boats or vessels, and what they were used for: George and Earl, Dorothy Earl, Josephine K., Conrad, speedboats

BOLIVIA QUITS PEACE PARLEY; LEAGUE ACTS

Lugano, Switzerland, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Council of the League of Nations today sent a cablegram to the governments of Paraguay and Bolivia urging settlement of their border dispute by conciliation. The Council took up the draft cablegram recalling to both governments their obligations under the covenant to settle any differences by pacific means.

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Bolivia withdrew today from the Pan-American conference of arbitration and conciliation following efforts of the conference to settle Paraguayan-Bolivian dispute.

Minister Diez de Medina presented a note to Secretary Kellogg, chairman of the gathering, stating that Bolivia cannot discuss any formula for a friendly solution of its dispute until Paraguay gives moral satisfaction for the "insult" inflicted upon Bolivia.

The Bolivian minister said later that "in the face of the grave insult that Bolivia has suffered from the hands of Paraguay, I have presented a note to the president of the international conference on arbitration and conciliation saying that I will withdraw from taking part in the deliberations of that assembly, since it is impossible for the repub-

CALL POLICE TO WATCH ELECTION AT REVERE

All Revere policemen not required for duty elsewhere were stationed at the polling places today on special orders from Mayor John E. Walsh.

This was after he received a report from a candidate of a threat to "steal" the election by importing voters from outside the city.

Mayor Walsh instructed Police Chief Edward J. Tighe to make immediate arrests of all persons against whom there was evidence of attempting to vote fraudulently.

Nine Massachusetts cities are electing Mayors today, while three others are choosing lesser officials. Revere is the only one of the nine cities where the incumbent is not seeking re-election.

Mayor Roy K. Patch of Beverly and Edwin H. Larkin of Medford are unopposed. Mayor Albert M. Tibbetts of Melrose seeking a third two-year term is opposed by four candidates Mayor James A. Roche of Everett is striving to defeat former Mayor Lester D. Chisholm, a seasoned veteran of six terms.

Mayor John D. Devir of Malden is also running for a fifth term, opposed by Austin H. Robey. Mayor William Johnson of North Adams has two opponents: Mayor Harry B

TUNNEY TAKES LONG COUNT ON BIG WORD

London, Dec. 11 (INS)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion and savant, who appears in the Social Register as the husband of his wife, and who is spending most of his time in London dodging reporters and photographers, refused today to confirm a report that he will sail for New York to spend Christmas with his wife's parents.

Tunney and his bride, Mrs. "Polly" Lauder Tunney, are living at the Savoy Hotel, although it was reported they had taken a house in the fashionable West End.

The former pugilist is on the warpath so far as the press is concerned. A newspaper photographer telephoned to Tunney asking his permission to make a studio portrait.

"No," said Tunney shortly.

"I see you mean what you say," commented the photographer.

"You are very per-per-perspicascious," said Tunney, who obviously took a long count on the big word.

According to reports Mr. and Mrs. Tunney may sail next week, although shipping companies declare no booking has been made.

'BUYS' WIFE, WON'T PAY

Budapest, Hungary, Dec. 11 (INS)—After Count Nikolaus Szechenyi, near relative of Count Ladislaus Szechenyi, Hungarian ambassador to Washington and husband of Gladys Vanderbilt, had promised to pay $8500 for a rich wife, he backed down on the bargain, it was revealed in a suit brought against him by Peter von Korbuly, another Magyar nobleman, who acted as matrimonial agent.

It was understood today the suit will be settled out of court. After the marriage of Count Nikolaus to Baroness Eve Guttman in this city, Von Korbuly filed suit, revealing he had been promised a fat fee if he found a wealthy spouse for the count.

BIG GAINS IN STOCKS

Prices in Wall Street made additional recoveries today. Short covering and easing of money rates aided the advance. Gains of $5 to $21 in high-priced copper, utility, merchandising, rail and motor shares were recorded.

Call money dropped from 8 to 7 per cent. Gold movement was swelled to $7,000,000 as $2,000,000 more came in from Canada.

Announcement of a big department store merger was greeted as the first of many to come in merchandising, textile, motor and other major fields of industry.

'Over the Top!' Cry to Goodfellows

THE case of the State of Misfortune vs. Mr. Bostonian Bigheart is presented today for the Goodfellows, present and prospective.

In fact, there are many more than one case. The number runs well into the thousands.

Goodfellows are responding, but every one possible is needed to take care of unfortunate families, to lighten the burden of children's sadness and wonder at Christmastime—and to make more happy even the Christmas of the Goodfellow himself.

These are some of the cases:

WALES SPEEDS ACROSS CHANNEL ON LAST LEG TO REACH DYING KING

London, Dec. 11—King George was at death's door late today.

Weakened by protracted fever and infection of the right lung, his strength had become so greatly impaired that fears were expressed in unofficial quarters that he might not live beyond another 48 hours.

An unofficial report this afternoon said the King had been unconscious since noon.

The possibility of the King's death is now being squarely faced by the nation. Reading between the lines of the latest medical bulletins the public discerns more than a fight to curb the illness. It is now a grim battle to prolong the sufferer's life.

With the King's death now believed near, all England today was watching the dramatic race being made by the monarch's eldest son, the Prince of Wales, to reach his father's side before death comes.

The Prince of Wales arrived at Boulogne at 6.45 this evening and started on the last lap of his [illegible] mile dash from equatorial Africa to England. He left Boulogne for Folkestone at 7:10 p. m. aboard the regular mail boat Biarritz. He is due at Folkestone at 8:40 and the regular boat train is due in London at 10:50 p. m.

ADMITS HE DIDN'T ASK KELIHER TO PAY NOTES

Harry L. Hind of 512 Beacon st., under cross-examination today in the Suffolk Superior Court trial of William J. (Big Bill) Keliher and two others for larceny and conspiracy, admitted he had the defendants arrested before notes he held from them were due.

Keliher, with John J. Duffley and William P. Connolly, are charged with the larceny of $450 from Hind, and $1280 from Henry H. Harris, his associate, and with conspiracy to steal money from both.

Cross-examined by Attorney [illegible] A. Vitelli, counsel for Duffley, the witness said he accepted a note for $450 from the trio, thinking it was a receipt. Later he discovered it was a note, the witness testified.

Hind admitted he was aware he could bring suit on the note, and also that he had never asked for [illegible]

BISHOP IS WITNESS IN SUPREME COURT

Bishop Slattery appeared before the Massachusetts Supreme Court today to testify that the Episcopal Church Association's new building, now under construction at 1 Joy st., will be used for "religious and charitable purposes."

Petitioners aked Supreme Court Jutice for a writ of mandamus compelling the Boston building commissioner to hal tthe erection of the Joy st. structure on the ground that it violates Boston's zoning law.

DECAPITATED BODY OF WIFE FOUND IN TRUNK

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 11 (INS)—The decapitated body of Mrs. Charles Taylor was discovered in a trunk in the abandoned barber shop of her husband at Normal, a suburb, today.

Neighbors made the grewsome discovery when, becoming worried at the shop being closed and the disappearance of the Taylors, they broke in the door.

The woman's husband has disappeared, police said.

Mrs. Taylor sued her husband for a divorce two months ago. But it was understood that they became reconciled.

EMPLOYED BY 1ST NATIONAL 14 YEARS

Ernest L. Ross, 34, of Blake st., Mattapan, was arrested today and was arraigned in Federal court, charged with misappropriation and embezzlement of $9000 from the First National bank of Boston. He pleaded not guilty and bail was set at $2500.

Ross has been an employe of the bank for 14 years. He was recently superintendent of the institution's foreign accounting department. He is the father of two children.

According to Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. John J. Walsh, Ross accomplished his defalcations by forging the names of First National bank depositors to checks which he subsequently deposited in another bank to his own account. The misappropriations are alleged to have been made from Feb. 1926 to Dec. 1928.

Ross' hearing was continued to Dec. 20.

COURT RULES CAR OWNERS' INSOLVENT

The master's report declaring the Car Owners' Mutual Insurance Company to be insolvent was confirmed today by Judge Pierce of the Supreme Court, who overruled exceptions to the report and set tomorrow as the date for a hearing on the attorney-general's request that a receiver be appointed.

The report was made by W. H. Hitchcock, who had been appointed master by the Supreme Court. As soon as confirmation was made Asst. Atty.-Gen. Roger Clapp requested action on the receivership petition.

At Clapp's request Judge Pierce [illegible] off for one week a scheduled [illegible] on petitions attacking the [illegible] of the new compulsory auto [illegible] rates for 1929.

MO[illegible]ER SICK FROM WORRY

The lure of the cabarets held somewhere today—perhaps in Boston—pretty Mrs. Yvonne Carmel, 24-year-old Pittsfield mother, missing from her home and three children since October 20.

A telegram from Police Chief John L. Sullivan of Pittsfield to Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley today told of her vanishing.

The telegram said also Mrs. Carmel's mother has suffered a collapse from worry, and is on the danger list in a Pittsfield hospital, and one of the missing woman's children is ill.

Mrs. Carmel, choir singer in the French church at Pittsfield, had been talking to a man relative to obtaining a post in a cabaret or night club in Boston or New York, Chief Sullivan said.

He described her as "pretty," 24 years old, 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighing 118 pounds and having gray eyes and dark hair.

Boston police are asked to search and to notify police in adjoining cities and towns.

WOMAN IN FIRE LEAPS FROM WINDOW

Cut off from the exits by crackling flames and rolling smoke, Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett, 60, a widow and genealogist, leaped from her first-floor bedroom window at 105 Russell ave., Watertown, today during a fire that practically destroyed her bungalow.

Mrs. Bartlett, widow of J. Gardner Bartlett, who also was a genealogist, was awakened by the noise of the flames.

Opening her bedroom door, she was nearly suffocated by a cloud of smoke and she quickly slammed it shut again.

Then she went through the window, landing in snow, and ran to the home of a neighbor, from where the fire department was telephoned.

Firemen had a stiff battle with the blaze and did not succeed in extinguishing it until a damage of $5000 had been caused. It is believed the fire started from an overheated pipe.

Hit-and-Run Driver Ordered to Pay $25

Leslie R. Bickford of Bremen st., East Boston, was fined $25 in Somerville district court today for going away after colliding with the automobile of Dr. Frank P. Seigliano of Morrison ave., West Somerville, on the night of November 30. Dr. Seigliano's car was damaged and Sergt. Fulton later located Bickford in East Boston. His machine had been damaged on the front end.

Cop, as Judge, Refuses to Jail Wild Driver

Crippled and leaning on a cane, Traffic Officer Cecil Craig of Traffic 20 nevertheless pleaded today in municipal court against a jail sentence for David Rotman, 18, of Fabyan st., Dorchester, whose automobile struck him on Nov. 12.

Craig was on duty at Stuart and Tremont sts. when Rotman's car crashed into him, inflicting severe injuries. Rotman admitted his brakes were worthless.

Judge Carr gave the officer the right to suggest sentence, but House of Correction for operating

"I haven't any desire to punish him. I think anything the court says should be satisfactory, but I would not want to see him go to jail."

Judge Carr imposed a suspended sentence of two months in the House of Corection for operating an automobile in a manner dangerous to the lives and safety. A charge of not having a registration in his possession was filed.

On suggestion of Judge Carr, a motor vehicle inspector took Rotman's license.

WALL ST. SANTA TO GIVE $75,000,000 IN BONUSES

BROKERS TO BE LIBERAL OVER BIG YEAR

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Correspondent.

New York, Dec. 11—Christmas bonuses to Wall St. employes are expected to smash all records this Christmas season, regardless of whether the stock prices rise or fall.

It was conservatively estimated today that the total distribution will be close to $75,000,000, which is about $25,000,000 more than was passed around last year.

There is a golden glow over Wall St. that even a series of "bear" markets cannot dissipate, and the hard-worked employes of the brokerage houses, banks and other financial institutions in the district are looking forward to bonuses that range all the way from 10 to 100 per cent of their year's salary. These employes have been working day and night to keep up with the avalanche of trading that has descended upon brokerage houses for months. Now comes their reward.

Proverbially liberal when making money, Wall Street is preparing to do the generous thing. Never in history has business been so good.

Transactions on the Stock Exchange this year are expected to total more than 900,000,000 shares, against about 600,000,000 shares for 1927, and the volume of trading on the Curb and over-the-counter markets has been correspondingly heavy.

The flood of commissions that made brokers prosperous is to be shared, in part, with the 100,000 of the lesser people of the street—the great army of clerks, stenographers, accountants and messengers.

The Federal Reserve Bank in this district is about to begin the annual distribution to member banks of Christmas gold coins. The amount of the distribution is never announced, but is unofficially placed this year at $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

Business has been so heavy in Wall Street that the New York Telephone Company has been forced to increase its facilities. There are eight exchanges, each handling 10,300 lines, serving the financial district but with the tremendous increase in trading in stocks these are not enough.

Te telephone calls to "buy" and "sell" are tremendous, and the company has started work on another exchange to meet the demand.

Eight million long distance calls come to New York each business day and Wall Street is probably responsible for a million of them.

The ups and downs of the market itself will not cut in on the commissions of the brokerage houses. If there are to be losses between now and Christmas, the speculative investing American public is most likely to take the blows.

Bank stocks, almost without exception, are high, showing that the banking institutions have had a splendid year. That the brokers are waxing wealthy is obvious by the manner in which seats of the New York Stock Exchange have risen.

Today in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

State Sends Ford $1 Check for a Road Worth $288,000

The latest transaction in the contract between Henry Ford and the State of Massachusetts, for the road he constructed near Wayside Inn, was completed today, when a beautifully engraved check for the nominal sum of $1 was mailed by State Treasurer William S. Youngman to the automobile magnate.

Under the terms of the contract, Ford constructed more than a mile of road at a cost to him of $288,000, and turned it over to the Commonwealth.

DAUGHTER OF GOW SAVES HER 'GOOD WISHES'

Out in the Brookline home of Col. Charles R. Gow, Boston's next postmaster, there was one member of the family who declined to congratulate him today on his appointment to the post.

This recalcitrant member was Grace Gow, 14, a freshman at Brookline high school. But, being an original young lady, Grace is refraining from giving her conratulations to her dad until she can send them through dad's own mails when he takes office.

The other members of the family were not so teasing toward their postmaster father, however.

Richard F. Gow, 26, and the eldest son, telegraphed congratulations from Worcester, to where he took his recent bride after their marriage. He is a graduate of Technology in 1925 and is connected with the Norton Company, construction engineers.

WILL ACCEPT POST

Arthur is the second of the five sons and daughters. He is 24 and was graduated from Dartmouth last June. He played center on the Dartmouth football team in 1926 and 1927, winning acclaim for going through the 1927 Harvard game with three broken ribs.

The third oldest is Jeannette, 21, a student at Miss Sacco's School of Interior Decorating, and the fourth is Charles Gow, Jr., 18, who attends Huntington School. Then, of course, Mrs. Gow was really the first with her best wishes.

The new postmaser himself has been in partial retirement for the past six years, prior to which time he sold his interest in the Charles R. Gow, Inc.

Since then he has been acting only as a consulting engineer when called in to aid untangle a knotty bit of construction planning.

"I will have plenty of time, therefore, to devote to the postmastership," he said today at the Gow home, 1751 Beacon st. "Public business cannot be neglected.

DID NOT SEEK JOB

"I have always had the highest regard for Postmaster Baker, and I know that, following him into office, I will find things in perfect order—making it far easier for me to get started on something of whose routine I now know nothing."

The new postmaster said he did not seek the post but was asked if he would accept, provided it were proffered. He did not go to Washington and was not called into conference with President Coolidge.

Smith Declines to Play Golf in Hub

Governor Smith is unable to meet Miss Henrietta Mackenzie of Oak Square ave., Brighton, in a golf match in Boston for the benefit of the Salvation Army's Christmas fund. Through his secretary, he declined Miss Mackenzie's challenge in a letter received by her today.

"He has been away for a short vacation and, on his return, finds many matters to which he must give his attention before the expiration of his term of office," the answer said.

WALES NEARING HOME AS HOPE FOR KING GEORGE IS FADING

MONARCH IS LOSING BATTLE

It was understood that either the prince's long journey from Africa had tired him of battleships or else the news handed him from London concerning the condition of his father had made him feel safe in risking the hour's delay.

The Prince was far ahead of his schedule and it was thought that he would clip at least 12 hours off the time his breath-taking journey had been expected to take.

Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister, hurriedly left the House of Commons late this afternoon for Dover, where he will meet the Prince on the latter's arrival there.

This morning's official bulletin, which was brief and still non-committal, conveyed little to the general public, and certainly gave no ground for belief that there was any change for the better in the King's condition.

It was evident that the persistent fever which has wracked King George for more than three weeks and has been sapping strength day by day still held a firm grip upon him.

That the King's powers of resistance have been ebbing for days under the strain of a lung infection, which spread to his general system, has been evident from the physicians' recent reports.

There was some comfort for his anxious subjects, who have been hoping almost against hope, however, in the statement in today's bulletin that there had been no further diminution of strength after a night in which the King had several hours' sleep, instead of passing a disturbed night, as was Sunday's. Whether this was a natural sleep was not stated in the bulletin.

CROWD OUTSIDE PALACE

The bulletin signed by Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn said:

"His Majesty the King has had several hours' sleep. The temperature remains high, but there is no further impairment of the strength."

That public concern over the King's condition was increasing was shown by the growing size of the crowds which gathered around Buckingham Palace.

The throng was large despite the prevalence of biting winds which sweep across the exposed plaza these cold winter days.

Those who waited outside the palace had to be content with what comfort could be obtained from the statement that there was no further diminution in the King's strength and this statement, when read in connection with the fact that there was no relaxation in the grip of the fever, did not afford any great amount of comfort.

If the Prince of Wales reaches London at the scheduled time tonight it is uncertain whether he will see the King at once. If His Majesty is sleeping when Edward Albert arrives at the palace it will be obviously unwise to awaken him and the Prince's visit therefore will be deferred until probably an early hour in the morning.

DUKE ON WAY HOME.

With the Prince of Wales speeding homeward as fast as he can, there are still two sons of His Majesty far from home.

The Duke of Gloucester, third son of the King, who was on a hunting trip in Africa with his eldest brother, left Cape Town last Friday on board the mail steamer Balmoral Castle and is not expected to reach home until Dec. 24.

ally looted Brockton stores for more than a month.

They are alleged to have admitted taking dresses, stockings, and other finery to the value of more than $100. Although at first the little girls maintained that they had stolen only to enlarge their own wardrobes, one of them is said to have admitted that "a woman friend" was involved in the shoplifting campaign.

So deftly was the actual thievery done that store detectives failed to have a suspicion of the culprits. Police action followed a complaint from the mother of one of the girls. The mother was unsatisfied by her daughter's story of how she obtained new clothes.

"Burglar's Dozen" Confess Stealing Junk; 2 Men Jailed

Admitting they were a "burglar's dozen" and had stolen $900 worth of copper wire, coil boxes and switches, 12 Watertown boys, ranging from nine to fifteen years, were arraigned today in Waltham Juvenile Court.

At the same time, in adult court, Samuel Cron of Seldon st., Waltham, and Peter Jones of Howard st., Watertown, junk dealers, were arraigned on a charge of receiving loot stolen by the boys.

Cron and Jones were sentenced to three months each in the House of Correction and fined $75.

The boys were each placed on probation for one year.

They confessed to taking wire and switches from McNamara's Kit, storage place of a Watertown contractor. According to the boys, after they got a quantity of the material they would call the junkmen and a wagon would be sent.

Asks $645,000 for Housatonic Channel

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of Army engineers, today recommended to Congress modification of the Housatonic river project in Connecticut at an estimated cost of $495,000.

The modified plans call for a channel 18 feet deep and 200 feet wide from south of Culver Bar to Shelton, Ct., provided that local interests contribute $150,000. It also recommends a $13,000 annual maintenance fund.

payment. He declared he had no knowledge of his counsel, Attorney Peter C. Borre, on the night of arrest, asking for the face value of the notes and $500 counsel fee.

Attorney Timothy J. Driscoll, counsel for Connolly, cross-examining Hind, brought forth the admission the witness thought it was peculiar that a large amount of money should be passed without papers, but Hind added there were going to be papers.

He said Duffley told him he represented a Chicago booze ring, and as the liquor trade was about at an end, with those engaged packing up and quitting, he, Duffley, had $43,000,000 on his hands to put into business.

"And you don't think that was peculiar?"

"No, not a bit."

The witness said he did think it peculiar when Connolly was introduced to him as a gunman. He denied telling anyone that Connolly had nothing to do with the proposition.

MRS. HIND IS WITNESS

Mrs. Grace Hind, wife of the previous witness, then took the stand.

She testified briefly to meeting Kellher in her home on the night of October 3, and also to being introduced to Duffley, whom she called Stackpole.

Frank W. Fletcher of West Emerson st., Melrose, testified he was an associate of Hind in a Mexican mine. He told of meeting Kellher and Connolly, calling the latter Sheldon.

of the Bankers Trust Company and calmly demanded money for the shares.

The clerk recognized the numbers at once and, asking the two men to be seated, notified his superiors, who called the police.

On being arrested Turner said he won the $68,000 in securities in a dice game in a Boston hotel from a man whose last name he gave to the authorities.

He said he did not know what to do with the securities until McFaul told him they could be cashed at the Bankers' Trust Company, the agent for Montgomery Ward & Co. McFaul claimed to have no special knowledge of the securities, but said he thought they could be cashed without difficulty. He added that Turner promised him $5000 if the negotiation went through.

Boston police were notified and at once began a search for the man named by Turner, a man who is a prominent figure in the local underworld. The police theory is that the securities were all sent to this city for disposal and that they were thrown into the dice game because of the difficulty of getting rid of them.

The authorities stated that on previous occasions stolen stocks and bonds have been sent from New York to Boston, being floated in certain instances by local bond and brokerage houses and banks.

Bolivia Rejects Arbitration Offer

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 11 (AP)—Bolivia has rejected an offer of mediation made by the permanent arbitration committee set up by the Condra accord, which provides for a permanent commission of inquiry to avoid and prevent armed conflict between American nations.

Fortuna Vega, president of the commission, which is meeting here, in announcing the Bolivian refusal said that country had both refused to name delegates to the commission and declined intervention by the commission.

Paragua announced that Eusebio Ayala, who heads its commission to the conference at Buenos Ayres, which failed to settle the boundary dispute with Bolivia, and Manuel Monte de Oca, Argentine statesman, would represent her on the commission.

Dr. Vega expressed optimism, however, that the dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia would be settled peaceably. This opinion was shared by Juan Pedro Paz-Soldan, Peruvian member of the commission.

Bolivia's reply to the commission was not made public, but Dr. Vega announced that he would lay it before that body for discussion.

EMPLOYED BY 1ST NATIONAL 14 YEARS

Ernest L. Ross, 34, of Blake st., Mattapan, was arrested today and was arraigned in Federal court, charged with misappropriation and embezzlement of $9000 from the First National bank of Boston. He pleaded not guilty and bail was set at $2500.

Ross has been an employe of the bank for 14 years. He was recently superintendent of the institution's foreign accounting department. He is the father of two children.

According to Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. John J. Walsh, Ross accomplished his defalcations by forging the names of First National bank depositors to checks which he subsequently deposited in another bank to his own account. The misappropriations are alleged to have been made from Feb. 1926 to Dec. 1928.

Ross' hearing was continued to Dec. 20.

Cop, as Judge, Refuses to Jail Wild Driver

Crippled and leaning on a cane, Traffic Officer Cecil Craig of Traffic 20 nevertheless pleaded today in municipal court against a jail sentence for David Rotman, 25, of Fabyan st., Dorchester, whose automobile struck him on Nov. 12.

Craig was on duty at Stuart and Tremont sts. when Rotman's car crashed into him, inflicting severe injuries. Rotman admitted his brakes were worthless.

Judge Carr gave the officer the right to suggest sentence, but House of Correction for operating "I haven't any desire to punish him. I think anything the court says should be satisfactory, but I would not want to see him go to jail."

Judge Carr imposed a suspended sentence of two months in the House of Corection for operating an automobile in a manner dangerous to the lives and safety. A charge of not having a registration in his possession was filed.

On suggestion of Judge Carr, a motor vehicle inspector took Rotman's license.

BROKERS TO BE LIBERAL OVER BIG YEAR

International News Correspondent.

New York, Dec. 11—Christmas bonuses to Wall St. employes are expected to smash all records this Christmas season, regardless of whether the stock prices rise or fall.

It was conservatively estimated today that the total distribution will be close to $75,000,000, which is about $25,000,000 more than was passed around last year.

There is a golden glow over Wall St. that even a series of "bear" markets cannot dissipate, and the hard-worked employes of the brokerage houses, banks and other financial institutions in the district are looking forward to bonuses that range all the way from 10 to 100 per cent of their year's salary. These employes have been working day and night to keep up with the avalanche of trading that has descended upon brokerage houses for months. Now comes their reward.

Proverbially liberal when making money, Wall Street is preparing to do the generous thing. Never in history has business been so good.

Transactions on the Stock Exchange this year are expected to total more than 900,000,000 shares, against about 600,000,000 shares for 1927, and the volume of trading on the Curb and over-the-counter markets has been correspondingly heavy.

The flood of commissions that made brokers prosperous is to be shared, in part, with the 100,000 of the lesser people of the street—the great army of clerks, stenographers, accountants and messengers.

The Federal Reserve Bank in this district is about to begin the annual distribution to member banks of Christmas gold coins. The amount of the distribution is never announced, but is unofficially placed this year at $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

Business has been so heavy in Wall Street that the New York Telephone Company has been forced to increase its facilities. There are eight exchanges, each handling 10,300 lines, serving the financial district but with the tremendous increase in trading in stocks these are not enough.

Te telephone calls to "buy" and "sell" are tremendous, and the company has started work on another exchange to meet the demand.

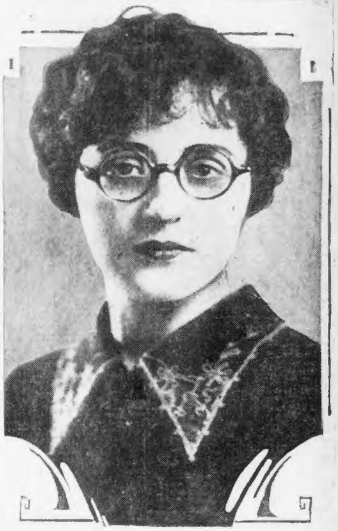
Eight million long distance calls come to New York each business day and Wall Street is probably responsible for a million of them.

The ups and downs of the market itself will not cut in on the commissions of the brokerage houses. If there are to be losses between now and Christmas, the speculative investing American public is most likely to take the blows.

Bank stocks, almost without exception, are high, showing that the banking institutions have had a splendid year. That the brokers are waxing wealthy is obvious by the manner in which seats of the New York Stock Exchange have risen.

Today in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads. you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

MISSING MOTHER OF 3



SOUGHT IN HUB CABARETS

Mrs. Yvonne M. Carmel of Pittsfield vanished in October and her mother has been made sick worrying about her. Police of Boston and other cities have been asked to look for her.

MISSING GIRL'S MOTHER SICK FROM WORRY

The lure of the cabarets held somewhere today—perhaps in Boston—pretty Mrs. Yvonne Carmel, 24-year-old Pittsfield mother, missing from her home and three children since October 20.

A telegram from Police Chief John L. Sullivan of Pittsfield to Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley today told of her vanishing.

The telegram said also Mrs. Carmel's mother has suffered a collapse from worry, and is on the danger list in a Pittsfield hospital, and one of the missing woman's children is ill.

Mrs. Carmel, choir singer in the French church at Pittsfield, had been talking to a man relative to obtaining a post in a cabaret or night club in Boston or New York, Chief Sullivan said.

He described her as "pretty," 24 years old, 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighing 118 pounds and having gray eyes and dark hair.

Boston police are asked to search and to notify police in adjoining cities and towns.

WOMAN IN FIRE LEAPS FROM WINDOW

Cut off from the exits by crackling flames and rolling smoke, Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett, 60, a widow and genealogist, leaped from her first-floor bedroom window at 105 Russell ave., Watertown, today during a fire that practically destroyed her bungalow.

Mrs. Bartlett, widow of J. Gardner Bartlett, who also was a genealogist, was awakened by the noise of the flames.

Opening her bedroom door, she was nearly suffocated by a cloud of smoke and she quickly slammed it shut again.

Then she went through the window, landing in snow, and ran to the home of a neighbor, from where the fire department was telephoned.

Firemen had a stiff battle with the blaze and did not succeed in extinguishing it until a damage of $5000 had been caused. It is believed the fire started from an overheated pipe.

Hit-and-Run Driver Ordered to Pay $25

Leslie R. Bickford of Bremen st., East Boston, was fined $25 in Somerville district court today for going away after colliding with the automobile of Dr. Frank P. His machine had been damaged on the front end.

State Sends Ford $1 Check for a Road Worth $288,000

The latest transaction in the contract between Henry Ford and the State of Massachusetts, for the road he constructed near Wayside Inn, was completed today, when a beautifully engraved check for the nominal sum of $1 was mailed by State Treasurer William S. Youngman to the automobile magnate.

Under the terms of the contract, Ford constructed more than a mile of road at a cost to him of $288,000, and turned it over to the Commonwealth.

DAUGHTER OF GOW SAVES HER 'GOOD WISHES'

Out in the Brookline home of Col. Charles R. Gow, Boston's next postmaster, there was one member of the family who declined to congratulate him today on his appointment to the post.

This recalcitrant member was Grace Gow, 14, a freshman at Brookline high school. But, being an original young lady, Grace is refraining from giving her conratulations to her dad until she can send them through dad's own mails when he takes office.

The other members of the family were not so teasing toward their postmaster father, however.

Richard F. Gow, 26, and the eldest son, telegraphed congratulations from Worcester, to where he took his recent bride after their marriage. He is a graduate of Technology in 1925 and is connected with the Norton Company, construction engineers.

WILL ACCEPT POST

Arthur is the second of the five sons and daughters. He is 24 and was graduated from Dartmouth last June. He played center on the Dartmouth football team in 1926 and 1927, winning acclaim for going through the 1927 Harvard game with three broken ribs.

The third oldest is Jeannette, 21, a student at Miss Sacco's School of Interior Decorating, and the fourth is Charles Gow, Jr., 18, who attends Huntington School. Then, of course, Mrs. Gow was really the first with her best wishes.

The new postmaser himself has been in partial retirement for the past six years, prior to which time he sold his interest in the Charles R. Gow, Inc.

Since then he has been acting only as a consulting engineer when called in to aid untangle a knotty bit of construction planning.

"I will have plenty of time, therefore, to devote to the postmastership," he said today at the Gow home, 1751 Beacon st. "Public business cannot be neglected.

DID NOT SEEK JOB

"I have always had the highest regard for Postmaster Baker, and I know that, following him into office, I will find things in perfect order—making it far easier for me to get started on something of whose routine I now know nothing."

The new postmaster said he did not seek the post but was asked if he would accept, provided it were proffered. He did not go to Washington and was not called into conference with President Coolidge.

Smith Declines to Play Golf in Hub

Governor Smith is unable to meet Miss Henrietta Mackenzie of Oak Square ave., Brighton, in a golf match in Boston for the benefit of the Salvation Army's Christmas fund. Through his secretary, he declined Miss Mackenzie's challenge in a letter received by her today.

"He has been away for a short vacation and, on his return, finds many matters to which he must give his attention before the expiration of his term of office," the answer said.

LOVED TEACHER HE 'HATED' AND KILLED HER

Stanton, Mich., Dec. 11 (INS) James Deacons, 15-year-old confessed murderer of his former school teacher Flossie Carter, 27, admitted today, according to Deputy Sheriff Irving Frost, that his hatred of three years for the woman was inflamed to a higher pitch by her refusal to let him hug an' kiss her when she stopped her car on an abandoned road.

"I killed her because I hated her," the boy had said in his earlier formal confession. "She slapped me in front of other boys when I was in the fifth grade. Ever since then I hated her."

Today, however, Frost said he admitted that a secret infatuation for her equalled his hatred.

Jimmy's father, John Deacons, the school janitor, expressed great surprise and doubt when informed of his boy's confession.

"I can't believe it," he said. "I've watched him all these years and he never would go around with girls."

"I tried to hug her and when she wouldn't let me I started to choke her," the boy answered, according to Deputy Sheriff Frost.

Jimmy told how he once liked the teacher and thought she was "fine" until she punished him and refused to speak to him for a long time.

Prosecutor Briggs said today he will ask the probate court to waive its rights to punish the boy as a juvenile. The court is expected to grant his request. Immediately he will plan his campaign by which he intends to try to send Jimmy to prison for life.

Chelsea Man Killed by Train

William F. Rourke, 45, single, of 117 Washington ave., Chelsea, was killed by the Boston-Rockport express of the Boston & Maine near the Washington ave. bridge, Chelsea. Identification was made by Patrolman Arthur Riley, a brother-in-law, of the Chelsea police, at the North Grove st. mortuary two hours after the accident.

Harry Blake, engineer, and Jeremiah Sheehan, conductor, were in charge of the train, which pulled out from the North Station. Rourke formerly was employed by the American Express company in Chelsea. He is survived by his parents.

SENATE IN TILT ON 'ARMY' IN NICARAGUA

Washington, Dec. 11 (INS)—The administration's hint that American marines will be retained in Nicaragua at least until after March 4—when President-elect Hover takes office—drew sharp criticism in the Senate today from the groups that have fought to withdraw them.

Senator Norris (R.) Nebraska, insurgent leader, intimated the administration had received the Senate last spring, when that body was informed marines would be held in the Pan-American republic only until after the election there. He demanded the troops be withdrawn at once.

Senator Bingham (R.) Connecticut, who, last spring, defended the administration policy toward Nicaragua, endorsed the continued occupation. He declared the marines were there by invitation of the Liberal President of Nicaragua and should be kept there as long as desired.

Senator King (D.), Utah, announced he would press for action on his resolution forbidding use of American soldiers in any foreign land, without consent of Congress. His bill would prevent American officers training armies of little nations on this continent.

The Good Fellow Season is here

CONFESSES TO KILLING OF 3D CHILD

Jersey City, Dec. 11 (INS)—Peter Kudzinowski, under indictment for the murder of seven-year-old Joseph Storelli in a marsh near here last month, confessed early today that he had strangled another child last August, according to Jersey City police.

The child was Julia Miodzianowska, five years old, of 22 Gilchrist st., Jersey City. She had been missing since last August 19, when she accompanied her parents to Lake Hopatcong, N. J., where Kudzinowski said the crime was committed.

It was the third murder to which the arch-fiend had confessed, and authorities now believe he committed others. When first arrested in Detroit he admitted that he had killed Harry Quinn, a friend, near the Kudzinowski home in Scranton, Pa.

Kudzinowski told police that after strangling the little girl he placed her body in an empty box car of a westbound freight train and jumped in himself. Alighting at Blairstown, N. J., with his grewsome burden, he buried the little girl in a lonely spot.

Police said they obtained a written confession, in which the slayer stated he had choked the girl after she screamed. He later seized and tore up the statement.

Unknown's Tomb Design Accepted

Washington, Dec. 11—The design for completing the tomb of the Unknown Soldier has been accepted, Secretary of War Davis announced. It was to be a Doric-columned "Parallelopipodon," with three figures symbolizing peace, victory and the American soldier. The design is by Thomas Hudson Jones and Lorimer Rich of New York.

DEMAND 2 NEW CITY BUS LINES IN SOUTH END

Two petitions of the Boston Elevated for authority to establish bus lines in congested sections of the city were backed by representatives of many business houses at a hearing today before the Public Utilities Commission in the State House.

One line would run on Washington st. between Northampton and Kneeland sts.

The other would operate from West Newton st. and Columbus ave. to the South station by way of Broadway, Washington and Kneeland sts., Atlantic ave. and Essex st.

Since the street cars were taken off on upper Washington st. last August, it was claimed, stores in the district have suffered a 25 per cent slump in sales.

A car needs a home. Have you a garage for rent? Tell about it and give location in the Want Rent Ads. That's the way to tell it.

INTRUDER BEAT REVERE WIDOW WITH POKER

After a battle with a man who broke down her bedroom door and attacked her with his fists and with a stove poker, Mrs. John Garden, 34-year-old widow, the mother of two children, was under a doctor's care today at her home, Bates st., Revere.

Her alleged assailant, Alexander Rispoli, 43, of Revere, was under arrest, facing arraignment in Chelsea District Court, charged with drunkenness and assault.

According to Mrs. Garden, she was awakened before daylight by the smashing of her door. As she sat up in bed, a man seized her, striking her repeatedly with his fists. She broke away and ran to the kitchen, snatching a poker. Her assailant took the weapon away from her and hit her over the head with it.

REVEALS SOUTH END DOPE CACHE

Testimony regarding a drug cache off West Newton st., and the blunder of a juror who mistook a recess for the lunch period, today featured the trial of Malcolm S. MacDonald of Vernon st., Roxbury, in federal court for the sale of narcotics.

Ira E. Brackett, 23, of Somerville, a government informer who admitted to a Concord Reformatory record, testified to the cache, which he said was in a hole in the ground in the alley.

The mistake of the juror who went to lunch during a 15-minute recess resulted in the trial being held up until his return and being then put over to 2 o'clock.

Brackett testified he purchased one ounce of morphine from MacDonald, paying $35 in marked bills for it, the "junk" being taken from a can hidden in a hole in the alley. He said negotiations for the sale, alleged to have taken place Aug. 9, included trips to South Boston and the South End.

Two Die in Hotel In Suicide Pact

Chicago, Dec. 11 (INS)—The bodies of a man and girl, each shot through the head, were found in a room of a North Shore hotel early today. Evidence indicated the man had killed the girl and then turned the revolver on himself.

The couple were F. W. Zimmerman, former assistant manager of a neighboring hotel, and Mrs. F. Williams, 22.

A note indicated the young woman was Zimmerman's fiancee and that they had agreed to die together.

3 Bad Men Escape From Tenn. Jail

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 11 (INS)—Homer Smith, 22, alias Roy Ray, convicted murderer; John Buffa, a Detroit gangster serving a term for robbery, and Alfred Baldwin, 26, Tennessee bandit, escaped from the State prison here today.

They escaped with an improvised pass key through a wing of the prison. Scaling the walls and avoiding high-powered electric lines, they were believed to have been outside the prison confines before being missed.

Dr. O'Brien Heads Lynn School List

Dr. Thomas R. O'Brien of Lynn heads a civil service eligible list from which an appointment must be made for school physician in the Lynn health department, it was announced today. Out of nine who took the examination only three passed. The two successful applicants, in addition to O'Brien, were Dr. Albert H. Covner and Dr. William C. Inman, both of Lynn.

New-Born Baby Found on Ice Cake

New York, Dec. 11 (INS)—Thrown into a sewer a girl, only four hours old, was saved today after she had lain for more than an hour on a cake of ice. The infant's cries attracted the attention of Joseph Berkowitz, a milk wagon driver.

Ice was so thick on the sewer that acetelyne torches had to be used to make an opening.

Found Shot Dead, Clothing Set Afire

Utica, Mich, Dec. 11 (INS)—Blazing from gasoline, the body of an unidentified man, who had been shot to death and then set afire, was found near here today. An empty gasoline can stood near by.

In the man's shirt were the initials "M. S." His suit of gray with pin stripes was from a New York clothing company.

Peruvians Hop Off On New York Fligh'

Las Palmas Airfield, Peru, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Peruvian airmen Martines de Pinillos and Zegarra hopped off at 10:31 a. m. today in the "Peru" on a flight from Lima to New York. The first scheduled hop was to Panama.

SEE DEFICIT ON $75,000,000 TAX REFUND

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Treasury supplementary estimates of tax refunds totalling nearly $55,000,000 more than originally expected to be required were sent to Congress today by President Coolidge, who is apprehensive that a treasury deficit may result if Congress appropriates too liberally.

In his budget message to Congress, the President observed that a surplus of $37,000,000 was in prospect for the close of the fiscal year, but he believes now it may be wiped out and the incoming President may face a deficit.

Suggestions have been made to Mr. Coolidge that President-elect Hoover is anxious that sufficient funds be appropriated for operation of the vast governmental machine but the President feels his successor may encounter greater difficulty in the event the treasury runs short of cash. Mr. Coolidge believes economy must be rigidly practised now to avoid a deficit and should departmental appropriations prove too small they could be increased by means of efficiency bills later.

The original estimate of the amount needed in 1930 for tax refunds was $20,000,000. The supplementary estimate increased this amount to $75,000,000.

Russia Urges 50 Per Cent Arms Cut

Moscow, Dec. 11 (INS)—An immediate 50 per cent reduction in the armaments of all nations is proposed in a letter sent by Acting Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff to President Lou[illegible] of the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission.

The letter, published in the official press, was to be presented to the League Council meeting at Lugano today. It ascribed failure of negotiations to attempt to set separate disarmament limits for each state, instead of establishing a general standard for all nations.

Harvard Juniors Boss Seniors Today

This was a big day for Hravard seniors, what with elections of commencement officers and all—but it was a bigger day for Harvard juniors.

In keeping with long-established tradition, the third year men had full charge of the senior balloting. Seniors did as juniors told them to, and there wasn't any arguing about it. These occasions don't come often, but when they do—shades of John H., himself, how the juniors do enjoy 'em.

HEED THIS CALL, GOODFELLOWS

THOUSANDS OF NEEDY APPEAL

only one working besides the mother, who does washing nights. Children say they desire a Christmas dinner more than toys

LIVE IN ATTIC

2, South Boston: Mother of three children, expecting a fourth, husband ill and unable to work for three years; husband's foot amputated three weeks ago; outlook is a doleful Christmas.

3 Chelsea: Widow with two children but receiving no city aid boy sells papers; family lives in attic; will be delighted with anything at Christmas.

4, West End, Boston: Six children, father sick; children wish toys—one girl's sole wish is a blackboard and piece of chalk, but all would like to taste candy.

5, North End, Boston widow with five children; husband dead two years; children without adequate shoes; wishes clothing for children principally.

7, West End: Family of nine owing nine months' rent, father out of work one year until a month ago, entire family needs various articles of clothing; none has tasted chicken for three years; mother's plea appealing if only because of reluctance; truly a family needing a "break."

If you want to be a Goodfellow for one or more families, write immediately to the Goodfellow Editor of the Boston Evening American and fill out the blanks published with this article. State if you wish, the district of Boston, or any city, or the section of a town, in which you would like to be a Goodfellow.

The Goodfellow Editor will then send you the names and letters of the needy and you can have the hearty satisfaction of learning what is needed, buying it yourself and delivering it, too.

If you cannot give the time to the buying and delivering, the Goodfellow Editor will be glad to attend to it just for you.

Write today to the Goodfellow Editor, Boston Evening American, Winthrop sq., Boston. Tell him what you wish to do, what size family or families you wish to provide for and he will forward one or more of the pathetic letters of appeal that he is receiving every day from those who deserve.

Be a Goodfellow.

LAST RITES FOR J. W. BROOKS

Joseph W. Brooks, who was well known in this city 15 years ago as business manager of the Boston Evening American, and who died from shock at his home in Yonkers, N. Y., on December 1, will be buried tomorrow from the home of a sister at 290 Prospect st., Cambridge.

A requiem high mass will be sung at St. Mary's Church. Besides his wife and four minor children, Mr. Brooks is survived by three sisters, Sallie, Mrs. Mary Jones and Mrs. George Brennan, all of Cambridge, and two brothers, Albert and Walter Brooks.

He was business manager of the Boston Evening American for six years. Later he conducted a students' exchange in New York and two years ago he became connected with the circulation department of the New York American where he was employed at the time of his death.

Heroic Boy Saves Two as Ice Breaks

Paxton, Dec. 11 (AP)—Risking his life on thin ice that cracked and sagged beneath him, 13-year-old Leslie Robinson saved from drowning James and Robert Wylie, brothers, and schoolmates at Center grammar school. Robinson heard shouts for help coming from Mathews Pond.

He found the two boys in the water clinging to the edge of the ice. Lying down to distribute his weight over a larger area, Robinson wormed his way across the ice and hauled them out. Suffering from shock they were helped to the nearby schoolhouse.

Votes Flying Cross to Wright Brothers

Washington, Dec. 11 (INS)—A bill conferring teh army's distinguished flying cross on Orville and Wilbur Wright as inventors of the first successful flyin machine was approved by the House military affairs committee today.

The bill, sponsored by Representative James (R.) of Michigan, originally made the award to Orville Wright, but the committee decided also to award the cross posthumously to Wilbur Wright.

Fruiter Rescues Two

The United Fruit Co. steamship San Bruno, Capt. Barr, rescued two men from a disabled craft November 26 off the southeast coast of Florida. Capt. Barr, on arrival from Tela, Honduras, reported falling in with the boat during a spell of bad weather, took the men off.

ASSEMBLE FOR AIR PARLEY

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Delegates were arriving here today for the international civil aeronautics conference which convenes tomorrow, in commemoration of the first heavier-than-air flight by the Wright brothers 25 years ago.

The conference will be attended by about 125 representatives of 40 foreign nations, an official delegation of 12 from the United States, and more than 300 leaders of commercial aviation in this country.

The conference will provide an opportunity for an exchange of views between the world's outstanding figures in aeronautics on the problems of commercial aviation.

First Woman to Die by the Garrotte in Cuba

Havana, Dec. 11 (AP)—The first woman ever to be put to death by the garrotte in Cuba probably will be Eduarda Oritz, convicted of killing her lover during a jealous frenzy.

Every effort to save Eduarda's life has failed and under the criminal section of the Supreme Court no clemency will be extended in the case. The court considers the death penalty must be meted out before the end of the year at Santiago, Cuba.

Eduarda is but 24 years of age

SENATE FORCES COMPROMISE ON BOULDER

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Senate reached the voting stage on the long-fought Boulder Dam bill today and put through the first of a host of waiting amendments, fore in a compromise etbween California agnd Arizona as to California's share of water from teh Colorado river.

By a vote of 48 to 29 the Senate fixed California's share at 4,400,000 acre feet after Senator Johnson, Republican, California, and Senators Hayden and Ashurst, Arizona, Democrats, voluntarily accepted that figure and then rejected it. Johnson expressed willingness to accede, although he had sought 4,600,000 acre feet, but withdrew his acceptance when the Arizona senators declined to promise that they would attempt no further revisions of the measure.

Johnson himself voted against the compromise, suggested by Senator Bratten, Democrat, New Mexico, and urged the Senate to defeat it. The Arizonans had asserted California was entitled to no more than 4,200,000 acre feet of water and were ready to accept the compromise figure but when Johnson sought an agreement that no other changes in the bill would be attempted, they declared they would fight to the last.

Study of Girls Urged by Sherborn Head

"If we fail after we have left school, if we fail because we have not been educated sufficiently, we are not sent back to school, but to a reform institution!"

A wistful, gray-haired, little gentlewoman mounted the platform to tell members of the Ruskin Club something about the humanitarian work she is doing. Mrs. Jessie Hodder, superintendent of the Sherborn Reformatory, is not at all the type one pictures for such a position.

Mrs. Hodder

She would challenge educators and make them realize their tremendous responsibility. "Look into public education, what happened," she asks, "that a girl's capacities were not found out when she went to school?" Instead it remains for the reformatory to help these unfortunate sisters to decide the kind of training in which they are going to major. Upon admittance, officials make a study of a girl's character and interest. Then she is assigned to work to which she appears best fitted—gardening, cooking, dressmaking, or other duties. Sentences are indeterminate, good behavior and rapid progress in the work assigned lead to advancement and often parole."

There is a class of women Mrs. Hodder designated as feeble minded, who would fail anyway. But the majority of girls with whom she comes in contact are starved intellectually, do not know human kindness. Believing that there are very few real criminals, Mrs. Hodder makes her girls feel that she is personally interested in their welfare. She has installed a library, musical talent is encouraged, sunshine pours in through the many windows all day long. In the summer the inmates pick blueberries, climb trees for apples, do gardening, take care of chickens and learn to know and love nature. The result of all this is hundreds of letters from former inmates begging to be allowed to come "back home" for the Christmas holidays, and others asking not to be paroled at this time of the year. They are rehearsing now for their Christmas operetta. Where there was 455 inmates 50 years ago, there are now 280, and the 58 guards have been almost entirely done away with.

I was interested to notice while at the Framingham Woman's Club last week, that they were holding an annual sale of fancy work done by the girls at the institution. Beautiful things they were, and so reasonable. The work was done in odd moments and netted them a little very welcome pin-money. Well, I guess this old world isn't going to the bow wows after all, as some pessimists would have us think!

BRAZIL'S PLANS FOR HOOVER ANNOUNCED

Rio Janeiro, Dec. 11 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, on his visit to Brazil, will be the official guest of the government at the "Palacio Guanabara," the private residence of the president. Accommodations have been prepared there not only for Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, but for all members of the goodwill party, including the newspaper men.

DRIVE TO PALACE

The official program for the visit was announced this morning. Two Brazilian cruisers—the Rio Grande do Sul and the Bahia—will meet the U. S. S. Utah 200 miles out and escort the American vessel to Rio Janeiro harbor. All Brazilian battleships and forts here will greet her with a salute of 21 guns.

On the afternoon of Dec. 20 the Utah will moor at the pier "Praca Maua," where President Washington Luis, accompanied by the entire cabinet and other high officials, will await Mr. Hoover. After greetings have been exchanged the party will be driven to the palace. The route will be lined with soldiers of the army on one side and a division of the Brazilian navy on the other.

RECEPTION AND BANQUET.

Two hours after his arrival Mr. Hoover will make an official call on the President at the Cattete Palace.

The next day, at 1 p. m., President Washington Luis will accompany Mr. Hoover to a special joint session of the two houses of Congress, where addresses will be made by the chairmen of the diplomatic commissions of the two Houses and by Mr. Hoover.

This event will be followed by a reception at the supreme court. Next will come a reception at the American embassy and in the evening the President will be host at a banquet at which he and Mr Hoover will both make addresses.

Hoover Speaks at Santiago; Leaves Tonight

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 11 (AP)—Replying to a formal welcome by President Ibanez today at a luncheon in the National Palace, President-elect Hoover declared that there was abundant reason why friendship and understanding between the United States and Chile should be deeply rooted in the hearts of the people of both nations.

He said that on both sides there was the common history of the labor of building in a new world a new form of government founded upon a new conception of human rights; subjugation of the wilderness; development of economic life through the application of the great discoveries of science and an effort to lift the moral and cultural levels of the two countries.

Before leaving late today for Los Andes to spend the night, before entraining tomorrow for his trip across the Andes, Mr. Hoover was to receive an honorable membership in the school of engineers of the University of Chile.

Princess Ileana Is "Too Busy for Love"

Bucharest, Rumania, Dec. 11 (AP)—Princess Ileana, daughter of Dowager Queen Marie, returned to Bucharest today after a visit to Sweden.

She was asked if she went to that country to look for a marriageable prince, but promptly replied: "I have far too many things to do to think of getting engaged or married."

Saugus Woman Hit by Trolley Car

Mrs. Alice Williams, 45, of Pelham st., Saugus, is at the Lynn Hospital, suffering from injuries received today when she was struck by the rear end of a street car swinging around the corner from Essex into Market st., Lynn.

KELLOGG PACT TO BE VOTED ON FRIDAY

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—A tentative agreement to vote on Friday on the Kellogg anti-war treaty was reached today by the Senate foreign relations committee after it had questioned Secretary of State Kellogg a second time.

Chairman Borah of the committee predicted favorable action on the treaty when the vote is taken.

Secretary Kellogg was before the committee for only 20 minutes. He reasserted his belief that the pact pledging this nation to renounce war did not infringe in any way upon America's Monroe Doctrine.

DISCUSSES RUSSIA.

He said the fact that Russia had joined other world powers in signing the treaty did not constitute recognition of that nation by this government. He insisted that the document carried no implied sanctions and could not involve this government in any way if it were violated.

With proponents of the treaty holding the upper hand in the committee, a vote on the pact will be pressed for on Friday.

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri who bitterly fought the League of Nations and American entry into the world court, asked that action go over until that day pending further study of the correspondence of the world powers in connection with their adherence to the pact.

REED BALKS AT VOTE

Senator Reed did not join in the agreement for a vote on the treaty on Friday, nor did he indicate that he would demand a reservation he has been considering. Chairman Borah, who is supporting the pact, said he believed early approval was in prospect.

While suggestions of reservations to the treaty were heard again, its proponents believed it would be reported to the Senate in the same form it has been tentatively approved by 61 of the 64 independent nations of the world.

Chairman Borah took little stock in reports that this country might set forth its views respecting the Monroe Doctrine in a letter to the other nations in connection with the treaty. Reports here indicated this step might be taken to avoid a reservation, but Borah said he had heard nothing of this proposal, nor did he think such a step necessary.

Dean Pound's Mother Dead

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 11 (AP)—Mrs Laura B. Pound, 87, mother of Dean Pound of Harvard University law school, died after a brief illness.

'GIVE US CHANCE' SAYS WIFE OF 'BOY HUBBY'

"We ask only that we be given a chance to live our lives as we see fit."

Found hiding in Rockport, Mrs. Leonard T. Wade and her "boy-bridegroom," who is 30 years her junior voiced this sentiment today in commenting upon their marriage.

Thecouple were married two weeksago, just after young Wade became 21 years of age and legally qualified to ignore the protests of his mother.

They fled into hiding after the wedding and then turned up in Connecticut, only to vanish again. Now they are in a boarding house at Rockport.

Mrs. Wade did all the talking when they were discovered, while her "boy-bridegroom" looked on in subdued silence.

"Those people who have found fault with us don't realize what Leonard and I have meant to each other from the time we first met," said the motherly-appearing bride.

Ct. Bank Assets Over $1,000,000,000

Hartford, Dec. 11 (AP)—For the first time in the history of the State, assets of savings banks, State banks and trust companies of Connecticut, have reached $1,000,000,000, according to the annual report of State Bank Commissioner Lester E Shippee filed with Governor Trumbull today.

The assets of savings banks on September 30, 1928, the end of the year concerned in the report, were $681,278,934, and those of the State banks and trust companies amounted to $396,043,460, a total of $1,077 322,394.

Coolidge's 'Hill House' for Week Ends Only

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—President Coolidge believes a mistaken idea has arisen from his letter to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in which he proposed a retreat for the President within automobile driving distance of Washington.

Mr. Coolidge wished to suggest a place where the chief executive might go for a week-end rather than for an entire summer vacation.

He believes the presidents would always desire to go into a section of the country with which he was not familiar for his regular summer vacation, rather than to a specified place each year.

He understands a suitable property for week-end purposes is that now owned by the Department of Agriculture at Bluemont, Va., where it was originally planned to establish a weather observatory This place, Mr. Coolidge feels, might be considered.

NEW HOPE FOR SAVING CELTIC FROM ROCKS

Cobh, Ireland, Dec. 11 (AP)—The White Star liner Celtic was still fast on the rocks here today, but moderating weather left calm seas, thus lessening danger of her breaking up.

White Star engineers arrived at Cobh today and boarded the vessel for an investigation upon which will depend attempts to salvage her It was believed the structural work amidships had been strained.

Capt. Berry and some of the ship's officers, together with a skeleton crew needed to handle ropes during efforts to tow her off, remained aboard.

About 800 sacks of mail were landed from the ship.

A third attempt to float the liner failed this morning. Another will be made at flood tide tonight.

Lloyd's said the water in stokehold 3 and 4 had increased to 24 feet, in No. 8 hold and bunker to 25 feet, and in No. 3 cofferdam to 21 feet.

The vessel apparently was held just forward of the navigating bridge. There was a perpendicular movement from about midships aft before high water.

Vestris Survivors Tell of Wreck of Celtic

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—Eye-witness accounts of the Vestris disaster and of the wreck of the liner Celtic were brought to England early today by four men among the hundred survivors of the Celtic's crash outside Cork harbor, who arrived at Holyhead shortly after midnight and travelled by train to London.

The members of the Vestris' crew on the train were Hugh L. Jones hospital attendant; Percy Hudson, steward; Thomas Robinson, bedroom steward and Ernest Dobbison a member of the crew.

The Celtic passengers were weary and travel worn after their experience aboard the liner and the rough crossing from Ireland. They were quickly passed through customs and in a few minutes boarded the Irish Mail, which ran in two sections for London from Liverpool.

DIVORCED, TRYS SUICIDE

Berlin, Dec. 11 (INS)—Carlotta Vanconti, dancer and operatic singer, who was recently divorced from Richard Tauber, attempted to commit suicide today by drinking poison. Tauber is reported to be planning to marry Kaethe Dorsch, with whom he is starring in the Lehar play, "Frederike."

Would Bar Sen. Klotz From Immunity Rule

Paris, Dec. 11 (AP)—The prosecutor of the republic today asked the Senate to lift parliamentary immunity from Senator Lusien Klotz, who was minister of finance in the war-time cabinet of Clemenceau. The prosecutor charged that M. Klotz had issued checks on banks in which he did not have sufficient funds. This is a criminal offense in France.

Friends of M. Klotz said that his condition was the result of tremendous losses on the New York Stock Exchange.

Confiscation by Soviet Approved

Berlin, Dec. 11 (INS)—The German courts today recognized the legal right of the Soviet to confiscate private property.

This principle was contained in a decision rejecting the claims of Prince Youssoupoff and Prince Contromanicz to art objects which recently were put up for sale at auction. The art objects had been brought from Russia.

Bill to Increase Pensions Is Filed

A bill designed to increase the amount of pensions paid to foremen, inspectors, mechanics, drawtenders and other positions in certain cities and towns was filed today at the State House by Representative James E. Hagan of Somerville. They now are entitled to a sum not exceeding $500 a year.

Hagan's bill would give them half their annual salary at the time of retirement.

Held for Larceny of Women's Coats

Charged with larceny of women's coats valued at $220 from an automobile, Patrick J. McCarthy, salesman, of Copeland st., Roxbury, was held for a hearing when arraigned today in Brighton court, where he pleaded not guilty. The coats were the property of Louis Cohen.

McCarthy yesterday was held in $5000 bail on other charges after Special Officer Maguire of Brighton division told of finding $2000 worth of goods in his house.

Pupils 5 Years Old, Using Typewriters

New York, Dec. 11 (INS)—Five and six-year-old pupils are doing their lessons on portable typewriters at the Horace Mann elementary school at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

Eighty machines have been installed as a pedagogical experiment.

House Passes Bill on Austrian Debt

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Burton bill, providing for settlement of the Austrian debt of $34,[illegible] to the United States, was passed today by the House by a vote of 140 to 26. The measure now goes to the Senate.

POLICE IN MOVE TO PADLOCK BUILDING

In his first move to padlock buildings in which liquor is sold persistently, Police Commissioner Wilson today filed a bill in equity in Superior Court, seeking to close a building in Water st., Charlestown.

According to the bill, filed for the commissioner by James N. Clark, attorney, the building is owned by Mary E. Dwyer and is occupied by John J. Dwyer as a soft drink and near-beer saloon.

The bill recited that Dwyer has three times been convicted of selling liquor at that same address within a period of three years.

It is known that the commissioner has listed a number of other buildings, some of them important downtown office buildings, for similar padlock action under the new law as soon as the Charlestown case—practically a test case—has been decided.

POLICE BUSY IN SWAMPSCOTT

What with respectable citizens having their overcoats stolen while attending church services, a little pig getting marooned in a four-inch snow drift, a perfectly good automobile being lost, and a milk truck skidding into a hydrant, the Swampscott police force had an exciting time.

First, the Rev. Robert Campbell Jr., pastor of the First Congregational Church, reported that two of his parishioners lost their overcoats while in church Sunday.

Then Mrs. Laura E. Healey, of Bristol st., called up to say that a poor little pig was stuck in a snowdrift near her house. The patrol wagon went to the pig's rescue and last night it was grunting and squealing contentedly in the station but with its owner undiscovered.

CONDEMNS 40 TONS OF GRAPES

Three freight cars containing 40 tons of wine grapes, destined for New Year's festivities, have been seized and condemned as mouldy, according to a statement today by Inspector John H. Linehan of the city health department.

The grapes were shipped from California two months ago and have been moved from city to city seeking a market eventually landing in Boston, where they were seized.

BOSTON SKATING CLUB MEMBERS BUSY AT ARENA—BETTY ALDEN

Practicing for Competition With Canadian Experts

NOT TOO SPEEDILY TO PLEASE SKATING CLUB members does the calendar revolve and so bring once again the ear-nipping months and smooth stretches of ice at the Arena. Two afternoons a week devoted to pirouettes and darts over shining surfaces on gleaming blades of steel, containing not a single moment of ennui to those thus occupied. The Skating Club's sessions are well on their winter's way. And well on its late afternoon way is the pleasing procedure of the steaming cup of tea to punctuate the twilight interval and offset that tiny touch of fatigue even the hardiest of skaters experience after a strenuous two hours.

OF COURSE THE HOLIDAY'S SHOPPING rush does deplete Skating Club members and attendance—but New Year's will find Charles Reith's cohorts doing their several hours on the Arena ice and supplementing these indoor sessions with many an hour at the Country Club, when Jack Frost settles down to be a Bostonian for many weeks to come and the well-tended out-of-door rink becomes the mecca for everyone.

KEYED TO THEIR HIGHEST PITCH, skaters of international fame like Mrs. Theresa Weld Blanchard and Nathaniel Niles, anticipate some keen competition when they are called upon to skate for the championship of North America. Canadians come over the border to meet the Boston experts this season, and will encounter the best the Boston Skating Club has to offer. Naturally, it will be Mrs. Blanchard and Mr. Niles who will star and probably Miss Maribel Vinson and Roger Turner, part of last year's Olympic contenders, will be on hand to supplement the Niles-Blanchard excellencies.

SOME FINE SKATING WILL BE ON THE cards when United States meets Canada here in Boston. Mrs. Blanchard and Mr. Niles have so many championships to their credit to recount them merely means repetition. Last season they represented America at St. Moritz and completed a Continental round that mainly was exhibition skating. Berlin was on the itinerary and then Mrs. Blanchard did some finished work in London before sailing homeward. Olympics are not on the cards this season. But the North American championship contest is a sporting event to interest many, those who skate and those who watch from the gallery.

Mrs. Albert Spaulding Howe, Jr., and Miss Carolyn Read are decorative young people when smart frocks and accessories are worn.

"FIESTA," AS MICHAEL GOLD INSCRIBES IT AND HARVARD Dramatic Club young men translate it, reaches the climax pre-presentation stage of dress rehearsals which causes stage managers despair and renders principals and chorus numb with fatigue. Notwithstanding all of whom Wednesday's "curtain" in Brattle Hall will find the Dramatic Club men and their feminine co-stars letter perfect and quite at home in the throbbing Mexican comedy. With true Harvardian modesty, "Fiesta" announcements proclaim the play a "stage spectacle of matchless beauty and unique interest."

SINCE MR. GOLD CROSSED THE RIO GRANDE FOR "FIESTA'S" color and brought back quantities of that necessary stage commodity and the club catches the spirit perfectly, a critic not caustic would have very kind things to say of the play's beauty and interest. Miss Alice Leroy Cobb, recruited from the ranks of the Junior League, does the feminine lead, Guadalupe, for whom peons and aristocrats sigh in longing. Charles Leatherbee is one of the sighing coterie. Miss Gloria Braggiotti wreathes into the plot the sinuosity of the dance in her usual finished and eve satisfying manner.

INTERESTINGLY-DIVERSIFIED IS THE PATRONESS LIST—SO cosmopolitan a set as Dramatic Club men gathered their sponsors from a wide circle. Madame Masaryk, the former Mrs. Crane Leatherbee, and mater to Charles Leatherbee just mentioned, is on the list. While the youthful Charles pursues the higher learning within historic Harvard halls, his mater is shining in French and British social circles, being an important international hostess to the beau monde in Paris and London. Madame Marsaryk was recently in Boston and after a summer at Woods Hole, spent some time at the Chilton Club, and then sailed for a winter in London.

MRS. B. H. BRISTOW DRAPER, MRS. FRANCIS RUSSELL HART, Mrs. George L. Foote, Mrs. E. Farnham Greene, Mrs. Charles Almy, Mrs. Louis E. Vose, Mrs. Frederick Hollsworth, Mrs. Leighton Brewer, Miss Maria Braggiotti, Mrs. Samuel E. Morison, Mrs. G. Cabot Caner, Miss Margaret Corliss, Mrs. Bacon Pleasanton, Mrs. Charles W. Taintor, Miss Ruth Bayliss, Mrs. Robert DeCourcy Ward, Mrs. Amory Lawrence, Mrs. Richard T. Fisher, Mrs. John Jenks Thomas, Mrs. Holmes Hinckley and Mrs. Wayland M. Minot are names all lending interest to the list. Dramatic Club members have gathered for "Fiesta."

YOUTH DANCED LAST EVENING AT THE COUNTRY CLUB. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garfield Cutler entertained for the latter's handsome daughter, Miss Dorothy Preston, in the usual debutante manner—a dinner preceding a dance. A duo of dinners, in fact, since the Cutler contemporaries and the bud's friends, ushers and debutantes were dinner guests. H. Harrison Proctor captained the usher staff and had at his command the usual under-graduate galaxy, including Thomas B. Gannett, Jr., Robert Walcott, John L. Grandin, Jr., Philip Bourne, Edward Sturgis, William Shearer, 3d; Richard Edwards, Paul Fitzpatrick, Charles Hodges, Jr.; Arthur Huguley, Jr.; John Langmaid and Harry D. Morse, Bostonians all.

OTHERWISE THE BLACK BROADCLOTH AND WHITE LINEN contingent numbered William Weir of Cleveland, Ernest Stent of California; John Stetson, 3d, and Henry E. Bassett, Philadelphians; Donough Prince of Short Hills, N. J., and Ludlow Stevens and Hawley [illegible], two Manhattanites, as dinner guests and ushers. Sometime Madame la Mere, with a stalwart son in the family, may turn the tables neatly and "bring out" her boy child amid all the trimmings of song and dancing now reserved exclusively for the fairer sex's advent into the social vortex. It has been done. But not in Boston. It still remains for some enterprising matron to send out cards to "meet my son," and so vary the social sauce.

Hub Man 'Cleans Up' Million in N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Dec. 11—Wall Street is today giving a Boston operator credit for the first big winning on the "bear" side of the market. It is reported that the Hub speculator, believed to be William H. Danforth of Hammond st., Chestnut Hill, cleaned up nearly a million dollars last week. While the details of his operations are not known, current gossip credits him among other things with having sold 20,000 shares of Chrysler Motors between $134 and $136, and covered it at an average profit of nearly $20 a share.

Mr. Man Is Your Wife Teasing You For A Fur Coat?

If she hasn't one—get her one for a Christmas present. Let her go to Scott's and select it and you'll have a supremely happy wife this Christmas.

Don't, Mr. Man, get the idea that a fur coat is expensive—it isn't, it is really the most economical type of coat that your wife could have—it lasts and looks beautiful for many years. Long after several of the most expensive cloth coats she could buy have been worn out and discarded, a good fur coat will still be giving excellent service, still be beautiful and fashionable.

Your wife knows all about Scott's. She knows that Scott's is a first-class, reliable house, selling only reliable furs and guaranteeing every sale in every respect.

BROADCASTERS ARE WARNED TO OBEY LAW

Washington, Dec. 11 (INS)—An official warning was sent to broadcasting stations by the Federal Radio Commission today that any violation of the laws or regulations will mean a termination of their licenses.

Within a few days the commission will consider the renewal of licenses which expire January 31. An examination indicates that a large number of stations are persistently violating the regulations, according to the commission.

Reports to the Commission indicate that more than 100 broadcasting stations are off their frequencies or otherwise violating the law.

Some stations are not announcing their call letters, as is required, while others are broadcasting phonograph records or other canned music as the genuine article.

The radio leaders of the House and Senate will ask Congress to extend the life of the Federal Radio Commission for another year, it was announced today by Senator Watson (R) of Indiana, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

This action was decided upon at a conference between Watson, Senator Dill (D) of Washington, Representative White (R) of Maine, chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, and Representative Davis (D) of Tennessee.

Sailor's Arm Nearly Torn Off in Winch

Salem, Dec. 11 (AP)—Charles F. Rockwell, 32, of Windsor, N. S., member of the crew of the schooner Frederick H., was severely injured today when his arm became caught in a winch while he was helping to hoist a sail. He was taken to the Salem Hospital, where an operation was performed to save the arm.

The Frederick H. sailed from Boston on Sunday for St. John, N. B., and put in here because of bad weather.

GARY COOPER IN NEW FILM WITH FAY WRAY

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright 1928 by Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11—Ned Sparkes' chair is vacant at the Montmartre. He has gone to New York to play in a movie. It's difficult to get used to these actors rushing eastward to make a movie for we have been accustomed so long to have them trek westward to the great open spaces.

Sparkes leaves to play the part he created on the stage in "Nothing But the Truth," which starred William Collier, Sr.

I believe I mentioned a few weeks ago that the elder Collier had been signed by Famous Players-Lasky to make some talkies. Another case of father and son in the movies. The movies are adding each day to the father and son combinations.

Buster Collier is interested in his father's screen debut and has sent him a wire. He will be ready to give him any advice the elder Collier cares to accept.

GARY COOPER, with the [illegible] smile and [illegible] [illegible], will again be united with Fay Wray in an all-talkie called "Through the Night." Cooper plays an engineer and all the action takes place on a train. Can't you just see Gary Cooper in the blue jumper, trying to look indifferent? He will have to be more than indifferent in this picture. He will have to do real talking.

Howard Estabrook is the author of the story which is said to have been written especially for the Wray-Cooper team. I really am anxious to know whether the Wray-Cooper team is as profitable as a box office attraction as we are led to believe.

Gary Cooper, I know, has a certain appeal for some of the fair sex, but Miss Wray has not been the sensational success that everyone expected when Eric Von Stroheim first discovered her. She is a pretty little girl, and a fair actress, but she is not another Janet Gaynor by a long, long way.

WHILE some of the other film companies are planning to [illegible] prologues, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer went ahead and made their own, not taking anyone into their confidence. The first of these was seen at the premiere of "The Barker," and a second one is ready to make its appearance, and will again be a Gus Edwards revue.

Edwards is calling his second number "From Hell to Broadway," and it's to be in three reels, with varied entertainment. Charles King, who is playing opposite Marion Davies in "The Five O'clock Girl," will have the lead.

The Pearl twins will do their songs and dances and Bo Ching and Bo Ling will also do a twin act. This, of course, is an all talkie, and is destined to take the place of the stage presentations now being offered in the theaters throughout the country.

I AM glad to hear that Rosemary Theby is to have an important part in "Trail Marriage," a Columbia picture. About 10 years ago there wasn't a woman on the screen who could play adventuress types with more savoir faire and more conviction than Miss Theby. She and Harry Myers were a team that were guaranteed to fill any theater and certainly she must have improved with the years.

How well I remember when Miss Theby came to Chicago to the motion picture convention and paid a visit to the Essanay studios. She was pointed out then as one of the most beautiful women on the screen, and one of the best actresses.

I AM beginning to regard these free lance expeditions with more or less suspicion. There are very few stars who start out free-lancing who do not sign when the opportunity presents itself. There is Marian Nixon for instance, who with a great gesture said that she was going out into the world as a free-lance artist. Now we hear that she is about to sign with Pathe and to put herself under contract to make pictures solely for this company.

MARY PICKFORD and "Coquette" are pretty well set. For some weeks there were rumors that Mary feared the effect of the unhappy ending and the suicide of the girl on her public. She realizes she has to do something drastic and different and "Coquette" seems to supply that need.

Johnny Mack Brown will play opposite her and the following cast will support her: John Sainpolis, John Gales, George Irving, William Janney and Louise Beavers. All of these people with the exception of Johnny Mack Brown have had stage experience and all of them will speak the lines of the play just as they were given on the stage.

LEW AYRES, 19-year-old member of the Montmartre Orchestra, had a pleasant surprise the other evening. Eddie Goulding heard him play and invited him to come to the Pathe studio to have a test made with Jeanette Loff. The test took and now Ayres will make music for the talkies and at the same time, act. That is what it is to have youth, personality and the ability to play in the band.

Raymond Hackett denying that his father was James K. Hackett, and stating that his parent is a wholesale grocer. Phyllis Haver excites over a sound picture.

Appeals are pouring in.

"Napoleon" Quits; Wanted—New Cat

There is a temporary opening at the Federal building for an ambitious cat, seeking a comfortable government berth at a starting salary of $11 per annum.

If he—or she— makes good on the job, there is opportunity for promotion to the post of feline custodian in the projected new structure with added emoluments and greater ease.

For the information of candidates it might be well to explain that this salary, paid monthly by the Treasury Department, all goes to the upkeep of the successful applicant in choice food and quarters.

Napoleon, veteran of the old postoffice structure, has deserted his job; whether because of the coming change in presidential administration or by reason of impending total abandonment of the premises.

A serious situation, arising from Napoleon's dereliction to duty, confronts the present human occupants of the semi-deserted Federal building, and calls for the immediate appointment of his successor.

Rats have been on a rampage; mice have seemingly multiplied and in both classes there are daily and nightly rodent rodeos held behind roomy partitions and across darkened floors in the comfort of ample steam heat.

WONDER IF THIS REQUIRES A CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION?
GOVERNMENT POSITION OPEN. SALARY $11.00 PER ANNUM
M

But to Miss Linda M. Black, librarian of the U. S. Circuit Court library on the top floor of the Federal building, a live rat is better than a dead one any time.

For the past week she and the patrons of the library have been annoyed. Several rodents are believed to have died of starvation after their source of food supply had been cut off by the recent closing of the postal employes' restaurant.

Until the building is razed to make way for the new structure, there is no method of combating the scampering occupants—their haunts deeply hidden within the stout wooden wainscotting and flooring of the present premises.

If it were not for the probable objection to the ruse by tenants of adjacent buildings, the rat plague offers a golden opportunity for the sibilant charm of a modern Pied Piper to lure them down State st. and to the sea.

A good cat, however, would be welcome to war on the menace.

U. S. Permit Frees Hub Druggist in Liquor Case

It turned out today in municipal court, to the surprise of Police Sergt. Louis Debessa, that pepsin elixir isn't gin or alcohol, but is just pepsin elixir.

The sergeant was also informed that a federal permit issued to a druggist to keep alcohol in his establishment is, in fact, a federal permit to keep such alcohol.

It was all incidental to the acquittal of Samuel D. Broudy, a Huntington ave., Back Bay, druggist, whom Debessa had brought in for keeping and exposing liquor for sale—to wit: two bottles of pepsin elixir.

Broudy said the sergeant seized the elixir despite his display of a federal permit.

Judge Good dismissed the case.

U. S. HUNTING TRAIL OF ROTHSTEIN DRUG RING IN BOSTON

FIND LINK IN 'DOPE' BOXES

By BERT FORD

Federal agents and Boston police made every possible effort today to find the tentacles of the Rothstein drug ring which are reported to extend to this and other cities on the Atlantic seaboard.

WORSE THAN RUM

"I think the federal government ought to erect hospitals to help stamp out one of the greatest evils of the present age. What is back of shootings and escapes in our prisons? Dope.

[illegible]

"Dope pedlars are worse than murderers. They destroy mind and body. They are corrupting even the young in high schools in different parts of the country.

[illegible] should be taken by our country."

20 Huge Narcotic Rings Operating in U. S. Now

New York, Dec. 11 (INS)—Federal authorities said today the investigation into Rothstein drug activities had revealed that 20 large narcotic syndicates were operating in the United States in illicit drug traffic, with European countries as the chief source of supply.

It has also been learned that Rothstein acted as "banker" for all 20 of the outfits and provided money for purchase of narcotics from abroad and arranged bail for ring members who were arrested—all at a handsome profit.

S-4 TOWED OUT FOR TESTS

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec 11 (AP)—The submarine S4 which sailed from the navy yard last December on the cruise that resulted in the deaths of forty men, today left here again to make tests in diving and [illegible] work.

This time the S4 was [illegible] Since [illegible] the submarine was [illegible] figured largely in salvaging the S4 off Provincetown

Cookbook Remedy for Divorce Popularity

Chicago, Dec. 11 (AP)—There is no substitute for a real home and a cookbook and a cookstove are remedies for the widespread popularity of divorces, Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, national director of the home and community work of the American Farm Bureau Federation, meeting here, said today.

Commenting on the feasibility of community kitchens for farm homes, an idea advanced in the Home Makers' conference at the University of Chicago, Mrs. Sewell said:

"Kitchens are laboratories where the wife administers to the health and comfort of her family—remove these home co-ordination influences, the very essence of American farm life would be lost."

NABBED AGAIN IN MAIL THEFT

Arthur J. Griffin of Moody st., Dorchester, said by postal authorities to have just completed an 18 months' term for stealing letters from delivery boxes, was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner E. C. Jenney today on a similar offense, and held in $1000 for the grand jury.

He was charged specifically with the larceny of a letter from a Brookline ... box. The letter contained a check for $... payable to James Hadley and is said to have been cashed by Griffin.

Bill to Abolish Death Penalty for Murder, Treason, in Britain

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—The bill to abolish capital punishment in Great Britain provides that a person convicted of murder or treason shall be sentenced to penal servitude for life, subject to the qualification that if the jury recommends the culprit to the mercy of the court, the court of criminal appeal may substitute a lesser penalty.

The bill does not affect the provisions of the military or naval regulations.

SOVIET SEEKS U. S. FAVOR

Moscow, Dec. 11 (INS)—That the Soviets are hopeful of closer relationship between Russia and the United States after President-elect Herbert Hoover takes office was indicated today by the speech made before the Soviet Congress by acting Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff.

Litvinoff dwelt upon two subjects: First, the willingness of Russia to disarm; second, the closer relationship between this republic and America.

Special Prison for Drug Addicts to Be Urged on House

Washington, Dec. 11 (INS)—Construction of three new federal prisons, including an institution for drug addicts, was advocated today by Rep. John G. Cooper (R), Ohio, chairman of the House prisons in ... committee.

Characterizing federal prison conditions as "[illegible]," Cooper announced that his committee would ... open hearings. The committee plans to call Atty. Gen. Sargent and his assistant, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, who is in charge of prisons, before it after ...

"The prisons are not filled with prohibition law violators, as many suppose," said Cooper. "Thirty-seven per cent of the inmates are there for violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act. Not all are themselves drug addicts, but a large percentage are victims of the habit.

"Our committee will consider advisability of recommending a separate institution for these addicts, so they may be given treatment and cease to exercise a bad influence on other prisoners."

Greater Volume Now Brings Lower Prices on the New Frigidaire

The unprecedented public acceptance of the New Frigidaire has resulted in the greatest increase in volume in the history of the business.

Quiet operation, surpassing beauty and lasting economy have further increased an already overwhelming preference of buyers everywhere.

This tremendous volume has resulted in further production economies. In accordance with the fixed policy of General Motors these economies are being passed on to the public.

Savings as great as $105

We therefore announce a sweeping reduction in the prices of household models, amounting to as much as $105, effective today.

A comparison of Frigidaire value, with any other electric refrigerator will emphasize the importance of this further reduction of prices.

We are glad to make this announcement at the present time for it will enable many additional thousands of homes to have the advantages of Frigidaire Automatic Refrigeration for Christmas.

The New Frigidaires, and details of prices and terms are now available at Frigidaire display rooms everywhere.

Special Christmas Payment Plan

In addition to the large reductions in prices Frigidaire announces lower initial payments and new terms during the Christmas season. Investigate our special time payment offer and have your new Frigidaire installed for Christmas.

Remarkable Story of a Famous Actress

CHAPTER 8

YOUNG Booth could hardly have given enough dash to his performances to have enlivened a crew of discouraged miners. He ventured one of his father's great parts, Iago, for the first time but made little impression. He strummed the banjo. Then actual famine set in. The theater was closed, and credit refused the company. In the midst of cold and hunger Booth learned of his father's death alone on a Mississippi riverboat. At evening of a bitter day a fellow-actor brought him a letter. Edwin read the look on his companion's face, and asked the question, "Spear, is my father dead?" Beset by catastrophe, the whole company walked down steep and scarcely broken roads through snow to Marysville, where they disbanded and Edwin, still on foot, made his way into the slough of the Sacramento valley, and then to San Francisco.

Sad enough, young Booth plunged at once into a brilliant and astonishing scene. By one of those sudden changes, which were both the life and the terror of the stage in California, the whole theatrical situation had taken on a new pattern. Maguire had by no means retired from theatrical control when he had sold the Jenny Lind. He had only shifted his ground. Within a few months he had built the San Francisco hall on Washington st., a "neat little temple," as one admirer called it, a "heart-delighting, side-splitting little bijou." The San Francisco was dedicated to mirth and the most spontaneous talent of the stage was gathered there.

The Chapmans were back from a riotous tour in the southern mines, where their gypsy temperament had had full play. They too had suffered from cold and from perpetual rains as they had ridden into the San Joaquin Valley; the pinch of winter, less sharp toward the south, was nevertheless in the air. As they left the coaches in the lower foothills they had been obliged to proceed on mules or horseback by narrow trails to the camps on distant placers and gulches. Bandits prowled through these regions. This was the haunt of the fabled Murietta, but perhaps the Chapmans liked the [illegible] of danger. They had hardly missed a camp. At Campo Seco a new little theater of boards and canvas had just been opened with the [illegible] bar in front. They had played in cloth and paper houses in

'Kiss' Speeders Too Fast, and Slow Boy Does the Kissing

Yonkers, N. Y., Dec. 11 (AP)—Romance is much alive in Yonkers, as exemplified by a race of the hare and the tortoise. A young lady told three suitors the first to arrive at her house by motorcycle would be kissed.

Reginald Ryer's wheel broke down. Floyd Carter and Stanley Allen raced on, neck and neck. A policeman detained them. Ryer made effective repairs.

When the other two reached the house they found Ryer smiling. And then Allen and Carter were fined $25 each.

PICTURES SENT LINER AT SEA BY WIRELESS

S. S. Aquitania, Dec. 11 (AP)—Photographs sent by wireless from Daventry, England, were received on board the Aquitania at midnight and reproduced by the Fultograph process. The Cunard liner was 650 miles from Great Britain when the pictures were received.

Electrical messages told a machine in a cabin on the boat deck exactly what to do. At midnight the operator at Daventry announced "We are about to transmit pictures of the regency council acting for the King during his illness. The experiment is being conducted by Wireless Picture 1928, Ltd., in conjunction with the Daily Mail."

The Fultograph receiver includes a metal drum around which was placed specially prepared paper. The Fultograph machine by means of perfect synchronization converted sound impulses into graduated lines of light and shade, gradually building up the pictures.

Five half-tone pictures were reproduced. The first one of Queen Mary was not a success owing to a fading of the signal strength. But likenesses of the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Premier and Lord Hailsham were excellent, except for dark lines due to atmospherics.

The success of the experiment was attributed to P. E. Pickett, a young Bromley, Kent, England, wireless expert.

Albany Telegram Is Absorbed by Hearst Paper

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 11—Purchase of the Albany Sunday Telegram by the Times Union, was announced by the latter newspaper.

The Times Union, an afternoon paper, is one of William Randolph Hearst's chain of newspapers.

Beginning next Sunday, the Times Union will publish the Sunday Times Union and Telegram. The only other Sunday paper now published in Albany is the Knickerbocker Press.

The Telegram has been owned for the last few years by a stock company. No mention of the purchase price was made.

COMPETITION STABILIZING RADIO PRICES

RADIO RECEIVERS as exemplified by the best types of electric apparatus now on the market will be as useful and as efficient a year from now, and five years from now, as they are today. They will probably not be greatly reduced in price because of the fact that manufacturing of receivers is now on a production basis in a highly competitive market and with moderate manufacturing and merchandizing profits generally prevailing. These factors are unlikely to change greatly in the next 12 months.

BATTERY TUBES IN A. C. SETS

AT LEAST one leading manufacturer of radio apparatus is placing on the market an A. C. receiver which will employ the reliable old 201A battery type tubes in place of the customary 227A and 226A detector and amplifier tubes now generally used. This will mean large savings in replacements of tubes, as well as the advantage of interchangeability.

WIRED WIRELESS

WITHIN THE COMING YEAR "wired wireless" entertainment of the best radio type will undoubtedly be available to electric current subscribers in nearly every community throughout the land. Subscribers will pay a weekly rental to the local power company for special receiving apparatus which can be plugged into any electric outlet. Three separate programs of entertainment will be continuously on tap during 18 hours each day and evening. Three switches on the receiver will bring in the three programs. Wired wireless will not displace radio broadcasting, however. The wired wireless is planned on a basis of non-commercial entertainment, paid for by subscribers just as telephone service is paid for by the users. Radio, especially of the important chain broadcast commercially sponsored type, will undoubtedly be as strong a year from now as it is today, and possibly even stronger. Already the broadcasting companies have come to a realization that the hours of the day and evening are limited. Only a definite limited number of features can be accommodated on national chain programs. The firms now represented on the air are but an infinitesimal part of the vast industrial community which supplies the wants of the American people. As time goes on, there will be greater and greater demand on the part of national industries to catch the ear of the people. To do it properly they must be prepared to give programs of ever finer type.

VISUAL BROADCASTS

TELEVISION will take great strides in the next year. The public has got over the first hysteria attendant upon the announcement of its approaching realization. They are content to leave its development in the hands of engineers, and to accept it when, as, and if perfected. It must find its place on the air, however, without disturbing audible broadcasts or interfering with marine, commercial and amateur radio. Up to date, the great difficulty has been to confine television to a non-interfering band. Possibly its field is in wired wireless where there are no problems of static.

RADIO TONES PENETRATE

LOUD SPEAKER DEVELOPMENT, it seems to me, is the field offering greatest promise. Certainly there is opportunity for vast improvement in this important section of the industry. There has been very little sound study given to acoustics at the receiver end, and in consequence we have speakers which leave much to be desired. For the average home, the speaker should be of a design to fill the ordinary room as though the performer were present. Instead, the inevitable trend is toward apparatus which can make itself heard for blocks. If the receiver's volume control is turned down to a barely audible pitch, we find that tone, while almost unheard in the room where the receiver is located, is distinctly audible a couple of floors above or in the cellar or in the apartment next door. There is a peculiar penetrating quality to broadcast tones which makes it almost impossible, with present types of speakers, to adjust volume to living-room demands.

BRILLIANT TONES POPULAR

IN LOUD SPEAKER DESIGN, too much emphasis has been placed upon bass notes. The manufacturers would make us believe that the almost inaudible tones of a 32-foot organ stop are the acoustical ideal. As a matter of fact, the public throughout history has always given its devotion to music of the brilliant order. Patti, Caruso, Calve, Melba, Sembrich, Galli-Curci, John McCormick, have nothing of the basso-profundo in their tones. The most popular instrumentalists are violinists. Radio loud speaker design should emphasize brilliancy of tone and the reproduction of harmonics instead of exaggerating the hollowness of a thumped rain barrel.

FOR CITY DWELLERS

ANOTHER FRUITFUL FIELD for the radio industry would seem to be in the haunts of the city dweller and the solitary roomer. There are thousands of persons living in small apartments or in furnished rooms who would welcome a small electric radio set which would be selective enough to give them a choice of five or six programs, and whose volume would not be such as to disturb the neighbors.

Socony Radio Skit on Gold Rush

A true story of the Yukon gold rush will be offered as the Soconyland sketch to be broadcast through WEEI, WTAG, WJAR, WCSH, WTIC and the National Broadcasting Company's network this evening, at 7.30 o'clock.

Last winter, when the annual point-to-point dog-sled race was held on Lake Winnepesaukee at Laconia, New Hampshire, this popular sporting event was sponsored largely by Arthur Walden, prominent breeder and owner of sled dogs. The material for this week's sketch is derived from Walden's book "A Dog Puncher in the Yukon," supplemented by conversation with the author.

'The Monkey's Paw' in Eveready Hour

A 20-minute "thriller" in the form of W. W. Jacobs' well-known one-act playlet, "The Monkey's Paw," will be the central feature of the Eveready Hour program, broadcast over WEEI this evening.

Shot through with flashes of stark melodrama and culminating in a wildly pulsating climax, "The Monkey's Paw" provides in concentrated form thrills and tense emotional crises.

Reginald Barlow will share leading honors in "The Monkey's Paw" with Rosaline Greene, the new leading lady of the Eveready Hour.

DEATH RATE IN FLU EPIDEMIC REMAINS LOW

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Although in the epidemic stage in some sections, public health service officials do not believe the present outbreak of influenza is as widespread as those epidemics that swept the country in 1918 and 1920. Nor is it considered as virulent in character, for the death rate thus far is considered low.

Nevertheless, influenza is held responsible for the closing of five schools in widely separated sections, though the approach of the Christmas holidays might have contributed to that.

The University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn.; Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind.; the University of Missouri, Columbia, the Seminary of St. Therese near Montreal, Que., and Levis College, Levis, Quebec, have suspended classes because of outbreaks of the disease.

No deaths were reported at any of the schools, but at Sewanee half the students were said to be ill. One hundred and fifty had the disease at Columbia, and at Culver 68 had reported to the infirmary since Saturday.

Three other schools also reported that influenza had made its appearance on the campus. It was characterized as an epidemic at the University of Iowa, but classes have not been ordered to suspend.

DRIVERS POST OWN SECURITIES AS AUTO RISK

Of the more than 600,000 Massachusetts motorists, all but 13 took out insurance policies during the present year under the compulsory liability act, it was revealed today.

The 13 took advantage of an alternate method provided under the law, and, in lieu of a policy, put up securities with the commissioner of public works of a minimum value of $5000. The rate fixed by the insurance commissioner for policies, they saved.

On the AIR at 7:30
A SOCONYLAND SKETCH

ALASKA! Cold, snow, hunger, and men driven mad by loneliness and the lust for gold. That is the theme of the Story of the Yukon, the Soconyland Sketch for tonight.

Arthur Walden, now with the Byrd Expedition in the Antarctic, knows the frozen northland and loves it. He has put his knowledge of life on the Alaskan frontier into a dramatic book, Dog Puncher of the Yukon. Tonight's Soconyland Sketch is based on this story.

You'll hear the wind whipping across the Alaskan snows. You'll face hunger and suffering and death. And when it's all over you'll feel as though you'd been right there yourself fighting it through with the last of the American pioneers...the Alaskan "sourdoughs."

Tune in at 7:30 and hear "A Story of the Yukon." Every Tuesday evening a Soconyland Sketch goes on the air from stations WEAF, WEEI, WTIC, WJAR, WTAG, WCSH, WGY, and WGR.

BANGS' FAMOUS HOUSEBOAT SET TO MUSIC AT COLONIAL

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

NEARLY all leading go-getters in history, seaming the years from Adam to Sherlock Holmes, crossed the stage at the Colonial last night. These were the actors and the ladies who gave life and voice to John Kendrick Bangs' lively satire, "The Houseboat on the Styx," now stepping forth as musical comedy. In 12 highly colored scenes you viewed Hades inside and out, met its tenants and then concluded that there might be many less interesting places to spend an evening.

Blanche Ring

As you might expect, grave liberties were taken with Mr. Bangs' original text, but the alterations were all on the side of good humor, with more than a liberal sprinkling of the quips and wheezes so dear to the heart of [illegible]. In this instance [illegible] Wald and John E. Hazzard supplied speech and situation for Mr. Bangs' characters, Mr. Hazzard proving himself especially [illegible] by also playing the role of Captain Kidd and eating his own words. If [illegible] seemed lacking, there was novelty to take its place. Adam and Eve, for example [illegible] forth a [illegible] dance [illegible] Queen Elizabeth made [illegible] to Sir Walter Raleigh, and history took a [illegible] with Ponce De Leon coaxing Cleopatra into a moonlight arbor—or something like that.

FULL OF ADVENTURE

While the story was necessarily rambling, it nevertheless was alive with rippling adventures. The tragedies and pains of the mortals were left behind while the spirits made merry in exceeding modern fashion. Prohibition and bad [illegible] played an important part in the [illegible] of the evening, with Captain Kidd serving as [illegible] and purveyor of forbidden juices.

The score, credited to [illegible] and Somers, though frankly reminiscent, was not without merit. Singers who were safe, sound and fiery interpreted it. The aged, tottering Charon, played by Bertram Peacock, sang splendidly through his weird-tossed beard. Sam Ash as Ponce De Leon and Alice MacKenzie as Cleopatra, introduced perplexing romance, accompanied by ringing tunes; while Blanche Ring as Queen Bess and William Danforth as Henry VIII amply held their own in some very fast company. Mr. Hazzard's Captain Kidd may be accepted generally as just Mr. Hazzard himself on easy and familiar footing. While every characterization had its own genial humor, that of Mr. Hazzard was the most enduring.

THE CAST

Charon, Ferryman of the River Styx	Bertram Peacock
Ponce de Leon	Sam Ash
Queen Elizabeth	Blanche Ring
Mrs. Noah	Jessie Graham
Lucretia Borgia	Marietta O'Brien
Queen of Sheba	Pauline Dee
Helen of Troy	Georgia Gwynne
Sir Walter Raleigh	Hal Forde

Sherlock Holmes	Charles Gibney

DANCES COLORFUL

Except for specialties by Mahrane and Norva the dance numbers were not impressive, they were colorful however in both costuming and [illegible]. In this respect the whole production was [illegible] and [illegible], in variety and [illegible] the costuming set up a new mark for the attentive eye of the younger group of producers.

But few musical satires have come to life so gaily tinted with fascinating background and tone, or so rich in inherited novelty. "The Houseboat on the Styx" as we viewed it at the Colonial, needs only the leavening process of time and the deft touch of show shop surgeons to make it a substantial contribution to the season's output.

CLASSIC MUSIC AT SYMPHONY

By MOSES SMITH

No novelty stood on the second program of the Monday evening series of Symphony concerts, no ear-raising composition of a brazen ultra-modern to disturb the tranquility of the concert-goer who worships the familiar. This is very likely as it should be, for the listeners at these extra concerts, most of them new to symphonic music, should be led, not driven.

[illegible] Bach [illegible] Brahms [illegible] Mozart [illegible] Ross [illegible]. Only the form is Mozart.

[illegible] "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun" and the [illegible] of Strauss [illegible] were the middle numbers on the program. The Prelude was beautifully played. The Strauss was not so imaginatively interpreted by Mr. Koussevitzky, it seemed to us, as it was by his assistant, Richard Burgin, when he conducted a pair of concerts recently. This later reading was too studied, too affected to impress the listener with its sincerity. Furthermore, the instrumental balance was not always good.

The closing piece was Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony, which displayed Mr. Koussevitzky [illegible] of mystery [illegible] interpreter of standard classics.

BEAUTY OF OLD AGE PICTURED AT ST. JAMES

There is perhaps, nothing more beautiful than old age—when it is beautiful. And that, personified, is that famous actress of another generation, Henrietta Crosman, appearing as guest artist with the Keith-Albee Players at the St. James in the comedy "Crashing Through."

Nearly a half century behind the footlights has failed to dim the brilliance of this lustrous star. Here seems to be the secret of everlasting charm.

Probably that is why the theater from which she has tried to retire again and again in recent years—only to be brought back to tread the boards once more [illegible] or that revival with stellar cast—cannot let her go.

REMINISCENT SPARKLE

All the sparkle which attended her best known successes—"Sweet Kitty Bellairs" and "Sweet Nell of Old Drury"—marks her portrayal of the society dowager of the old conservative school who tries to teach a lesson to the present generation whose heedlessness of the conventions she finds it so difficult to understand.

As her ultra-modern granddaughter confronted with an age-old problem in love which she solves in her own way, Adrienne Earle, as Consuelo Poole, was a credit to the distinguished actress she supported. Equal praise is due John Warner, who, as a young steel worker, represented Consuelo's love problem.

CRASHES SUCCESSFULLY

He effectively "crashed through" the roof of the dowager's mansion into the heart of her granddaughter and finally into her own.

Last night's success of "Crashing Through" could not fairly be said to be due in less measure to the excellent efforts of Jessamine Newcombe as Consuelo's more than modern, divorced mother and Thomas McKnight, her ditto father.

Coming Events

"[illegible]" of the Theater Guild's offerings, [illegible] will take the stage at the Hollis next Monday night.

"The Electra Magdalene" will engage the attention of the players at the Keith-Albee St. James next week.

"[illegible]" is the title of the Mutual offering at the Gayety next week.

"Jim the Penman," a revival, will come to the Colonial on Monday, December 24.

"And So to Bed" will start its local engagement at the Plymouth on Tuesday, December 25.

"The Royal Family" is announced as the attraction at the Wilbur, starting Tuesday, December 25.

Joe Cook, in "Rain or Shine," will move into the Shubert on Tuesday, December 25.

"Cafe de Danse" will test the holiday spirit by starting its engagement at the Majestic on Christmas Day.

GYPSY THEME IN NEW FILM AT STATE

By LEO GAFFNEY

In "Revenge" at Loew's State Dolores Del Rio devotes herself generously to the dual if not exactly allied pastimes of taming wild bears and fractious men. The press-bill admits that the production is based on [illegible] splendid [illegible] Tibor [illegible] [illegible] but a lot of beautiful [illegible], beautifully [illegible] with a great deal of intervening distance between what the author wrote and what the scenarist drafted.

Dolores Del Rio

Like many another good story that has been gobbled up by the films, very little of the original is left. When the "adaptation" is made the most sublime indifference to the author almost invariably takes place.

"Revenge" is just that. With every chance in the world to be a good drama it tosses all [illegible] and becomes [illegible]. Miss Del Rio parades at the sets in [illegible] and [illegible] then an upward tilt to the head does a brilliant portrayal of—Dolores Del Rio.

Also very much in evidence is a tall, slim-waisted chap who rides a fiery white steed and who is known as Jorga the bandit. Jorga is the kind of fellow who prefers to enter by the [illegible], a pretty [illegible]

SHOW FOLKS AT KEITH-ALBEE

Scoring an emphatic hit, a new picture, "Show Folks," a backstage romance, was heartily received by local motion picture fans on its premiere showing at the Keith-Albee yesterday. The production, directed by Paul L. Stein and featuring Eddie Quillan, Lina Basquette, Robert Armstrong, Bessie Barriscale and Carol Lombard, is one of the best comedies of theatrical life this season, and there have been many.

The story deals with the doings of several vaudeville players known as the hoofer, the feeler, the old trouper, the talent scout, the baby-doll vamp familiar to every professional stage performer. Eddie Quillan as the hoofer provided much enjoyable comedy and the dancing of Miss Basquette as the feeder was quite artistic. Robert Armstrong was excellent in his portrayal of a manager. Miss Barriscale, who returns to the screen after years of retirement, and Miss Lombard as [illegible] vamp were [illegible]. The direction was all that could be asked for.

No [illegible] "Show Folks" without [illegible]. It is snappy all the way through and the various situations have been cleverly handled. The photoplay by Peverell Marley and Davis Abel was [illegible] satisfactory.

A bright bill of vaudeville completes the show.

SHARKEY LOOKS GOOD IN DE KUH BATTLE

By JACK CONWAY

JACK SHARKEY, through Manager Johnny Buckley, today agreed to battle K. O. Christner for Tex Rickard in New York on January 25.

The Boston heavyweight contender proved that he has not lost any of his boxing craft or punching power when he hammered the gigantic Arthur De Kuh into submission in their ten round bout at an Arena A. C. show at the Boston Arena

Sharkey was unmarked after the bout, while at no time during the contest was he bothered the least by the leg he injured while training for his tussle with Roy Peterson last August.

Jack Conway

The Sharkey program calls for him to engage in two bouts before he enters the ring with Christner in New York. One of the tussles before the Christner match will be staged at the Boston Garden while the other will be held in either Detroit or Cleveland.

Johnny Buckley today expressed himself as pleased with the decisive manner in which Sharkey disposed of DeKuh.

"Jack had not been in a fight since he knocked out Jack Delaney in a round, last April," said Buckley. "[illegible] were naturally at sea as to [illegible] this long lay-off would have on him. He also [illegible] [illegible] up under a [illegible].

"Sharkey looks like his old self again. His [illegible] and speed will be greater after he [illegible] a couple of more fights under his belt. He will [illegible] Christner, [illegible] and Dempsey."

DeKUH was completely outclassed by Sharkey. The New York Italian was badly beaten in every round.

In the sixth session, DeKuh was on the verge of a knockout. Sharkey had been hammering away at his mid-section. The bombardment had slowed DeKuh down. While the New Yorker was trying to protect his body, Sharkey suddenly shifted his attack to the head. He crashed a terrific left hook to the jaw and then crossed a short right hander to the same spot.

DeKuh sagged under the power of the two punches. As he fell back he pulled his guard so high so as to protect his jaw. Sharkey then did the unexpected. Instead of driving straight for the chin, he let fly with a right hand uppercut. Jack came up on his toes as he delivered the blow. Every ounce of strength in his body was behind the smash.

The punch crashed under DeKuh's upraised arms and landed under the jaw. The Italian went to the canvas in a heap.

AT first Sharkey retired to his own corner as Referee Johnny Brassill started to count. The Boston contender then moved over into DeKuh's corner, which was nearer the fallen boxer. The referee ordered Sharkey to return to his own corner.

DeKuh got up at the count of nine. Sharkey had him hanging on at the gong.

Again in the tenth frame, Sharkey came near tipping DeKuh over for the long count. This time it was a terrific series of body smashes which had DeKuh in distress.

DeKuh was on the defensive virtually all of the time. Sharkey took most of the fight out of him in the opening round. De Kuh let fly with a right which was intended for the jaw. Sharkey stepped back quickly and DeKuh's blow missed its mark. Before DeKuh could recover himself, Sharkey crashed a terrific right hand sock to the body. Thereafter DeKuh was very cautious when he did any leading.

As a result, Sharkey had to do most of the forcing all through the bout.

DeKUH, six feet two inches tall and weighing 204 pounds, looked like a giant alongside of Sharkey. The latter weighed 196¼ pounds.

In the early rounds, Sharkey was off in his judgment of distance. As the bout wore on, his judgment of distance improved. He was shooting sharp and true in the final session.

Sharkey requires a couple of more tough bouts. He will then be ready to tackle the cream of the heavyweight division with more than an even chance of victory.

A CROWD of 11,000 fans paid $18,500 to see the contest. The show was a sellout at popular prices of $1 to $3. The same attraction in New York would have gone $70,000, but Sharkey wanted to make his first start before a home crowd. He was also anxious to give the Arena Club an opportunity to make a profit in view of the loss it suffered last summer when the Sharkey-Peterson bout was called off at the last minute.

IN the semifinal, Lou Bogash stopped Archie Skinner in two rounds. Bogash knocked Skinner through the ropes and Archie's head was injured by the fall.

Tony Schucko of East Boston kayoed Eddie Salvy of Everett in two sessions.

Jackie Donahue of South Boston gave Cap Colombo of the Navy a pasting in an eight-rounder. Donahue had Colombo on the floor in the fifth round. After the tussle Donahue was matched to tackle Tony Canzoneri of New York at a Sharkey A. A. show at Mechanics Building on next Monday night.

Bert Moore of New York outscored Mike McGowan of Cambridge in six sessions, while Billy Rawson of Dorchester stopped Benny Zabull of Cambridge in two heats.

W. T. McDermott and John Glacken were the judges. Jerry Moore refereed the prelims.

It was announced that Sammy Fuller and Henry Janco will collide in a ten-round bout at the Arena on next Monday night.

Schmitz to Lead

Hanover, N. H., Dec. 11—Leonard Schmitz of Evanston, Ill., was elected captain of the Dartmouth soccer team for next year. He has been member of the team for two years and played on the freshman soccer team.

Bookies 'Jobbed' by Eastern Betters

New Orleans, La., Dec. 11 (INS)—One of the biggest coups ever made on a winter race track, recalling the incident at Miami a few years ago when a horse was bet upon to place and show, was "put over" at Jefferson Park here yesterday when Flag Lieutenant, owned by J. McNamara, won the final race.

The wise boys of the East and Central West bet on "Flag Lieutenant" to win while they had others bet upon "Seventh Son" in the race. The result was that "Flag Lieutenant" opened at 8 to 5 and was built up to $5.90 after his number was chalked up, whereas "Seventh Son" who opened at 3 to 1 was 6 to 5.

Over a million dollars changed hands all over the country. The handbooks being hit right and left, information received here today showed:

The system was easy: "Seventh Son," with his consistent running was bound to be installed as a favorite. The handbooks took all they could on him and sent it back to the track as "Comeback Money."

However, the wise boys were betting $5000, $10,000 and $20,000 in the handbooks all over the country, on "Flag Lieutenant," while the racetrack men bet on "Seventh Son" at the track.

The "handle" for the race totaled $28,757, which was more than in any race of the day. But the Easterners waited, as they did not want their money to reach the track. The result was that "Flag Lieutenant" won and paid $5.90 to $1.

The coup was one of many that has been engineered since the Jefferson track opened this year.

Christmas is almost here

22 Grid Stars on All-Eastern Team

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 11 (INS)—Twenty-two football stars who flashed across various gridirons in the East and Middle-West during the past season, will gather in Chicago Saturday as members of the East's all-star eleven, which plays a collection of Pacific Coast stars at San Francisco on December 29.

These players will take their first workout under Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr at Dyche stadium of Northwestern University here Saturday afternoon and will leave the same evening for the coast.

Twenty-one players, eleven from the East and 10 from the Middle-West, have accepted an invitation to play. They are:

Ends—Barabee, New York U., and Delp, Tenn. State, and Haycraft, Minnesota.

Tackles—Nowack, Illinois; Rankowski, Ohio State, and Wagner, Wisconsin.

Guards—Thomson, Lafayette; Getto and Fox, Pittsburgh; McMullen, Nebraska, and Gibson, Minnesota.

Centers—Ashman, W. & J. Mitchell, Bucknell.

Quarterbacks—Harpster, Carnegie Tech; Weston, Boston College, and Levison, Northwestern.

Halfbacks—Strong, New York U., and Bennett, Indiana.

Fullbacks—Holmer, Northwestern; Howell, Nebraska, and Guest, Lafayette.

ANDY MITCHELL REAL FOE FOR MALONEY

Refusing an offer of $25,000 for the contract of Andy Mitchell, who clashes with Jim Maloney at the new Boston Garden Friday night, Jack Kearns is of the opinion that his ambition of developing another heavyweight champion will be realized with this youthful prodigy of the Pacific Coast.

And for this reason, Kearns turns a deaf ear to all these offers, which have been made since this hard-hitting Mitchell came to the East to score stunning knockouts in two starts.

Defeat is unknown to Andy Mitchell, and this fact will make the Californian a formidable opponent for the South Boston man. In 35 fights Mitchell has never been defeated, although he was held to a draw at the start of his career.

In his last 19 fights Mitchell has scored 18 impressive knockouts. This is the sort of an opponent that has been picked for Maloney.

Leo Mitchell, the younger of these sensational knockout kids, has a record just as spectacular as his brother, and there seems to be some question among the followers of the game in this city as to which one of these boys carries the stiffest wallop.

The younger Mitchell, who just turned 21 years, will face Homer Robertson, Boston negro, in the secondary 10-round feature. Robertson is known as one of the cleverest ring generals in the game and if Mitchell can put over one of his crushing right hand wallops in this bout his future will be assured.

Leo has participated in 40 bouts and has never met defeat. He has won his last 18 by the knockout route.

Medford High Court Prospects Poor

By DICK McSWEENEY

"In Medford high we have the boys who know the way to play;
For victory on victory they pile up every day. . . ."

So run the words of one of the songs sung at the Mystic school.

Unfortunately these words cannot be applied to the Medford high basketball team for good players are scarce at the Blue and White institution.

Coach Tony Lyons, who had great success with his basketball teams at Brockton high school, is attempting to develop a strong hoop team at Medford, but the material he has to work with doesn't look promising.

With only one veteran, Robert Morrison, and a few football men, Wilder, Griffin, De Benedictis, Wright, and Yagjian, Lyons must put out a team which will uphold the prestige gained by Medford high when it won a State championship in the first year of its court team's existence.

BIG SQUAD OUT

Over 100 youths, most of them short of stature and lacking in weight, are practicing daily in the hope that they may make the team.

Both Head Coach Lyons and his assistant, Ernest Roberts, will watch all inter-class contests eagerly and give tryouts to those boys whose work stands out.

The season will be opened on January 4, when Fitchburg's hoop team visits the Medford gym. Until that time, practice, practice, and more practice, will be in order for the Medford quintet.

Edward Pidgeon, coach of Medford's track team, is perhaps the busiest coach in New England, but he says that he will have time to develop a good track outfit.

Pidgeon coached the Medford A. A. football team this season, his charges winning every game without being scored on. This winter, Pidgeon will coach the Medford track team, the Medford A. A. hockey, basketball and track teams and the St. Joseph's basketball team.

That's quite a schedule of work for anybody, but Edward Pidgeon is just the man for the job. As to the Medford high track team, he feels fairly optimistic.

He has Ken Cuneo, team captain, out for the 1000; Bob Andrews and Harry Wright in the 600, along with Jim Bowdoin; Bud Uanna in the dash; Bill Clark in high and broad jump, and Gerald Griffin and Ben De Benedictis in the shot put.

Bowdoin and Cuneo are veterans and both are smooth runners. Uanna is very fast. He proved his speed on the gridiron this fall.

Griffin and De Benedictis, husky football veterans, have the weight and other capabilities needed for shot putting. Practice is held daily at the Medford high gym.

There will be an inter-class meet at the school gymnasium on Dec. 21, followed by the annual Alumni meet on Tuesday, Jan. 1. The rest of the schedule, Jan. 5, Newton at Newton; Jan. 11, Open; Jan. 17, Malden at Boston Y. M. C. A. building; Jan. 26, Andover junior varsity at Andover; Feb. 2, Northeastern Interscholastics at Boston Y. M. C. A.; Feb. 9, Huntington School at Boston Y. M. C. A.; Feb. 16, B. A. A. meet at Boston Arena; Feb. 23, Andover Interscholastics at Andover; March 2, State meet at East Armory, Boston.

Lawrence Spellman, halfback on the Medford high football eleven, has been elected captain of the Blue and White team for 1929.

Spellman is a junior and he starred in many of the grid contests at Medford this fall.

As the Bruins and the New York Americans are only half a game behind the leaders of their respective divisions in the race for the N. H. L. championship, the battle at the Boston Garden, tonight, should produce an exceptionally keen brand of hockey.

Due to the fact that Pittsburgh and Chicago are already out of the running, interest in the American division will center around the battle for the Prince of Wales Cup, with the Bruins defending against Rangers and Detroit.

While the natives are playing the Americans tonight, Lester Patrick and his Rangers will tangle up with Connie Smythe's Maple Leaf outfit, and the Cougars will battle the Maroons in Montreal.

On the other hand, the Canadian division clubs are evenly matched and although in the standing the Americans are in last place, because they have scored less goals than Canadians, and Toronto, with which teams they are tied as regards points, they are only one point away from the pace-setting Montreal Maroons.

BRUINS WANT REVENGE

The Bruins feel that back on their own ice they will avenge the defeat suffered in New York at the hands of the Americans. The Boston team was not on edge for the wearers of the stars and stripes on Sunday night in Madison Square Garden, as they had played a whirlwind game against the Maroons the previous evening and then jumped over to Gotham on the sleeper.

Regardless of whether it wins or loses no team can hope to be itself for a couple of days after playing the Maroons. Therefore, the Bruins' defeat in New York was not wholly unexpected.

The revamped Americans have been playing a classy calibre of hockey all season. The team was up at the top of the Canadian Division until they began to get tossed around, for spending their good money for Roy Worters.

Any team capable of staying up in the race with Vernon Forbes in the nets is deserving of consideration and now that the Americans have acquired Roy Worters, they are going to be bad news for any club.

DYNAMITE GUS, M'LEOD WAR THURSDAY

The two most spectacular holds known to the sport of wrestling will be on display Thursday night in the Arena, when Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, master of the flying tackle, will battle Farmer George McLeod, leading exponent of the flying head scissors.

It is doubtful if a more attractive match has ever been made, from the point of view of those who like frills and thrills mixed with straight-away wrestling.

Neither Sonnenberg nor McLeod has been defeated this year. Each has swept through all comers, relying largely on pet holds, to stand out as the best young heavyweights in the country.

Having finished the football season by leading the Providence Steamroller team to the professional football championship, Sonnenberg is now devoting all his attention to capturing the heavyweight wrestling championship.

He is being tutored in the fine points of the game by one of the old masters in the art of wrestling. He has everything a champion needs.

Sonnenberg will be favored to defeat McLeod.

The preliminary card, one of the longest and most attractive of the year, was completed by Promoter Bowser.

Howard Cantowine, the Iowa Thunderbolt, is to be paired with Ned McGuire in the semifinal bout, while in the other bouts, Dan Koloff will be paired with George Walker; Freddy Meyers of Chicago with Sam Skorsky of Chelsea, and John Spellman, [illegible]

Cooney has become the darling of the Bruin supporters. He is a fine center, a good skater, dribbler and checker, he is quite a useful young man.

Crimson Hockey Team Ready for Engineers

By TED LYNCH

Five lettermen will grace the starting Harvard sextette tomorrow night when the Crimson makes its hockey debut at the Garden, facing Technology.

Coach Joe Stubbs is starting a veteran in every position outside of goal, at which post three rookies will display their wares.

Coach Stubbs gave out the starting lineup today just previous to the Crimson's last workout on the Garden surface before the Engineer game.

Harvard will start Capt. Johnny Tudor and Bobby Giddens at the wings, with Guy Holbrook at center. The Bigelow twins, Bert and Hugh, will again be found on the defense. Bill Elkins, a senior, has the starting assignment at the Crimson goal.

Tudor and Glidden started most of the big games a year ago, while the Bigelows and Holbrook were used as spares. Elkins spelled in the Harvard cage in a few weak games last year but the senior will be starting the game tomorrow night with little worthwhile experience.

He was beaten out by Tubby Jackson in his freshman year and has done little goal tending at Harvard since that time.

Harvard once again has a fast and well-balanced team. That forward line of Tudor, Holbrook and Giddens should score many goals.

Guy Holbrook will have a tough time trying to reach the heights set by Johnny Chase a year ago, but the former Newton boy is in good shape and has looked great working in combination with Tudor and Giddens.

For a second line Coach Stubbs has Charley Red Lakin and Bill Everett on the wings, with Johnny Garrison at center. As has been the case at Harvard in the past, this shock line will be used as much as the varsity.

Lakin, a letterman, will spell Giddens on the right lane with Everett, a sophomore, relieving Tudor on the other extremity.

Leaders in Both Loops Gather in Chicago

Chicago, Dec 11 (AP)—The old strategy of the would-be David Harums, to get a bushel for a peck, was present again today as American League magnates and officials assembled for their annual business conference.

In contrast to the situation when [illegible] was expected to [illegible]

100 TO BE TRADED

More than a hundred American League players were on the trading block and plenty of action was expected in the player mart.

New York, Washington and Boston are involved in a rumored trade which, if completed, would mean a decided shakeup in these three clubs. Ossie Bluege, Washington third baseman, was slated to move from the Senators to the Yankees. Infielder Buddy Myer of Boston would go back to the Senators and five unnamed players from New York and Washington would be shipped to Boston.

The Yankees also were in the market for big Ed Morris, the Boston pitcher who won 19 and lost 15 games for the cellar champions last season.

The White Sox also were ready to barter for added strength—if it can be done without releasing Pitcher Thomas and Lyons and one or two other mainstays. At Toronto last week Cleveland indicated it would trade Pitcher Uhle and Catcher Autrey for Bib Falk and Bill Hunnefield. [illegible]

Holy Cross to Have Hockey Sextet

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 11 (AP)—Holy Cross College will have a varsity hockey team this winter, Athletic Director Cleo A. O'Donnell announced this morning. He says that while the schedule is not complete, it will play among others teams representing Boston College, Boston University, M. I. T. and Williams.

He says that Dick Harrel of Dorchester will be acting coach but will not play. There will be no home games, all contests in which Holy Cross team takes part will be played in either Boston, Providence or Springfield.

O'Donnell also announced that Augustus Cervini, '26, has been named coach of the freshman basketball team. Last year Cervini was on the varsity basketball squad and was assistant line coach of the varsity football team this season.

"The former Dartmouth star proved he is as good as ever when he made Stanley Stasiak look as tame as a house kitten in their contest at the Arena.

"NOW Bowser is going to toss George McLeod at Sonnenberg in a finish bout, which will be staged at the Arena on Thursday night. McLeod is one of the most skillful wrestlers in the world. [illegible] Lewis is one of the few men who have been able to defeat [illegible]

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

Unless the Pittsburgh and Chicago clubs acquire some much needed strength, there will be little interest in the American division of the N. H. L. after the first of the year.

In ten games, the Pirates have scored but six times, won one game, and tied three, while the Blackhawks are credited with only three points in seven games.

[illegible] wrong in both Pittsburgh and Chicago. The Pirates have practically the same team that represented the Smoky City during the reign of Shorty [illegible]

A year ago Manager Odie Cleghorn lined up some fine prospects, but he was unable to get in touch with the owners and obliged to pass up deals which would have put Pittsburgh in the running. This season Odie did not know until just before the start of the season, if he was going to be retained as manager.

There must have been some question regarding Cleghorn's return, for he was offered the managership of Les Canadiens, which he was obliged to pass up when he was notified to report at Pittsburgh by Benny Leonard.

Odie C[illegible] nager, but he has had no too[illegible] for that reason the Pirates are in their present [illegible] position.

The Chicago situation is exactly opposite to that of Pittsburgh. With the exception of the Bruins, there is no club in the N. H. L. which has had as many players on its roster as Chicago.

Since the Blackhawks joined the league the shipments of players have rivaled those of cattle into the Windy City. But the Blackhawks have gotten nowhere, because the owners were of the opinion that they knew more about hockey than their managers.

Barney Stanley, a most capable manager, who had piloted teams successfully through Stanley Cup series was pronounced incapable by the owners of the Blackhawks. Through interference on the part of the biggest stockholder, the Chicago Blackhawks are up to their necks in debt.

Huntington R. Hardwick had an interest in the Chicago Blackhawks when that club joined the National Hockey League but he wisely saw the handwriting on the wall and withdrew though not quite soon enough, dropping almost $100,000 before he got out from under.

Even if they were [illegible] the present day hockey addition.

For two years Chicago men have been trying to sell enough stock to build an ice palace similar to the Boston Garden but have not met with success. It was too much for a one man proposition to hope to be successfully put over and until the control is taken over by others than the present owners, Chicago will flounder around and it is losing money for every team in the league.

The Pittsburgh franchise may be [illegible] to Cleveland or Philadelphia [illegible] inducements are offered. Such a move would [illegible] of the other clubs, for the Smoky City is well off the main line of travel and the club, providing it was strengthened [illegible] re-

St. Nicholas Club to Sue Tex for $2000

New York, Dec. 1—Formal notification that the St. Nicholas Arena intends to carry its fight against Madison Square Garden to the civil courts was served on President Tex Rickard yesterday.

In a letter which was made public, Howard C. Griffiths, president of the St. Nicholas Arena, notified Rickard that the Garden owes his club $2000 for two shows staged at the Garden on Monday nights, the night assigned to the St. Nick by the State Athletic Commission. Griffiths claims Rickard usurped his night, and Rickard claims he did so with the approval of the commission.

STUDENTS' PLEA TURNED DOWN

Lewiston, Me., Dec. 11 (AP)—Despite student petitions pleading for the retention of C[illegible]ton Wiggin, as baseball and hockey coach at Bates College, President Clifton D. Gray, of the college, announced that he "had nothing to say" as he left today for a speaking engagement at New Bedford, Mass.

Wiggin, who was also head football coach, was dropped last week, according to a statement by Physical Director Oliver F. Cutts. Bates football teams have not been successful under Wiggin but his baseball and hockey teams have stood among the leaders in Maine college circles.

Cutts, in making the announcement, said that the policy of the college in not hiring seasonal coaches made it difficult to retain Wiggin for the two minor sports.

The student petitions were left at President Gray's office today after a meeting of the student council

The Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

THERE is always a graceful way OUT. Whether it's getting out of a dinner engagement, crawling out of a love-affair, sneaking out of a pink tea, getting out of marriage or making final exit from life.

Of course, you can't make divorce really pleasant, or lovers' quarrel delightful and you can't make suicide cheerful or dainty. But at least you can be sporting and well bred about them.

Most of these recent suicides have been so grotesquely or melodramatic [illegible] that they have [illegible] than the actual tragedies.

[illegible] there is no woman living [illegible] loved with [illegible] after some foolish love affair had gone blah. But, just as she was gloating over the vision of herself lying cold and white on the marble slab, another Nice Man always came along and interrupted her!

Personally, I never could entertain the idea of suicide, after the second cup of coffee in the morning, no matter WHAT kind of a scrap I had had with the Only Man the night before.

But, if I wanted to commit suicide, I should "choose my exit." I'd find a nice, clean, tidy ladylike way to do it. I'd never announce openly to the world that I was a QUITTER.

Jumping off a roof where you may land on the neck of some innocent bystander or plunging into a city reservoir and spoiling the water is not only unsporting but selfish and inconsiderate. And going to a boarding house and using up the landlady's gas for your own personal indulgence—I ask you, is THAT nice?

Getting out [illegible] a love-affair is another thing in which we moderns seem to have lost all sense of delicacy and sportsmanship. The man who brutally chops off a love affair with a cleaver, leaving the woman quivering with hurt pride or wounded vanity, is a savage. A true gentleman knows how to detach a woman's clinging fingers from his heart and pocketbook, as tenderly as he would a baby's fingers from the candy.

Women who howl for "heart balm" are just POOR SPORTS or cold-blooded gold-diggers. Like the beggars of Italy, who have lost all sense of shame or pride, they boldly bare their wounds to the world and whine for sympathy.

Be a THOROUGHBRED! If you think you've lost in the game of life or love, just set your lips in a smile, hold your head a little higher—and WAIT for your chance, to "come back." It always comes! Law suits and suicides are the side-exits of the poor "sports."

Woman's Urge to Create Life

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M. D., PH. D.

THE girl does not think of her doll as something lifeless and a mere toy. She actually thinks of it as an animate, living baby—her own baby.

This is a decidedly feminine trait, the urge to put life into lifeless things.

Women, therefore, become passionately attached to home furnishings, and other articles, that leave a man, comparatively speaking, cold. A chair, a vase, a picture, dozens of things like that take on human attributes to a woman. She loves them as she would something living. Into them she breathes a soul.

A woman's mind is full of such imaginings, beautiful memories connected with home, or a garden or a book or a souvenir of some sort, all of which she has created for herself, and to which she has imparted personal qualities.

Particularly is this true of presents given to a woman by an admirer or a beloved one. These she treasures most highly. They may even serve as kindly spirits or good [illegible]. She makes them almost human.

The mere possession of an object does not thrill a woman as much as the sentiment with which she is able to endow that object.

The young, romantic girl, receiving her tiny diamond engagement ring, places a greater value upon it than the divorcee who receives a three or five karat stone at her second marriage. The most inexpensive and unimportant object may yield the greatest thrill, all depending upon the amount and quality of sentiment with which she endows it.

Men seldom understand this kind of sentiment in women and [illegible] they wound the feelings of women quite needlessly. Sometimes they do it unintentionally. Sometimes they perceive it and make fun of it, not realizing themselves how it feels to possess that particular kind of sentiment.

About the most cruel thing any one can do to a female child is to smash her doll. Likewise, a woman often suffers agony because her husband has ruthlessly trampled on a rose she has been nurturing or has thrown away an old teakettle which she has treasured since they set up housekeeping.

This tendency of woman also helps to explain her great attachment to dogs, cats, horses and canaries.

A man may be fond of animals, too, but he never forgets that they are not human. But a woman talks to them and cares for them and pretends they are human. Often in this respect, she goes to an absurd extent.

Women therefore should be surrounded with objects which they can call absolutely their own.

They should possess things that they can call absolutely their own which they do not have to share with others.

In this way a woman's life is extended and enriched. She feels herself among friends and is gratified thereby.

Surrounded by objects which she loves and has animated with sentiment, a woman does not usually feel lonely.

Hurry-up Hot Breads

and what Mrs. Hartman found out about taste

IF you are very particular about the taste of your hot breads, have a care about the taste of your shortening!

Try this simple test: Put a little Crisco on the tip of one spoon; on the tip of another a little of any other shortening. Taste first Crisco, and then the other fat.

Mrs. J. S. Hartman, Jr., tried this and wrote:

"Although Crisco has been used in my home ever since I was a child, I had never thought of tasting it until I read your suggestion. I must admit I was surprised—for Crisco really does taste just like sweet, unsalted butter.

"And I find in using Crisco that it is always uniformly sweet and pure and you get more satisfactory results—always and all ways."

Virginia Sally Lunn

¼ cup Crisco
⅓ cup sugar
2 eggs (beaten)
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup milk
2 cups flour

Cream Crisco and sugar together. Add beaten eggs, and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with milk to the first mixture. Bake in a Criscoed shallow pan in hot oven (400° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

Golden Muffins

Follow recipe for Sally Lunn. Fill muffin tins two-thirds full of batter. Bake about 15 minutes in a hot oven (400° F.). This makes 15 to 18 muffins.

French Coffee Cake

Crisco's sweetness lets the full delicate flavor of this recipe assert itself. Make up Sally Lunn recipe. Divide batter into two round layer cake pans. Brush top lightly with melted Crisco, or dot with little pieces of Crisco. Mix together two tablespoons of sugar and one teaspoon of cinnamon, sprinkle over entire top, then scatter over this chopped nuts. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in hot oven (400° F.). Serves 6 to 8 persons.

Waffles

Follow the Sally Lunn recipe but separate the eggs, adding beaten yolks to batter and adding ¼ cup more milk. Just before baking add egg whites beaten stiff. (For crisper waffles simply cook longer.) This makes enough to serve 6 to 8 persons.

You taste your milk—
You test your eggs—

Story of a "Good Gunman" and His Battles

CHAPTER 37

IN justice to the dying gentleman who had given him shelter and offered him a home, Eddie Regan felt he must, at whatever risk, say at least this much. Mr. Thorndike apparently agreed with a nod of his head.

"I understand," he said. "I was merely explaining my impression of you in the beginning, Mr. Regan. When I learned that you had fought with Tom Freeman—over Marian, I suppose—that impression deepened and I had a pronounced dislike for you. You'll forgive me, won't you, for telling you these things while you are my guest? I only want to make the situation clear. My only interest in you, even now, is through Marian. She likes you and, ergo, you are important to me."

Eddie, with knitted brow, waited for what was coming next. Anything he might say, at the moment, would be futile.

"My tendency, I admit, is to be antagonistic," the older man swept on. "But I want, also, to be fair if the doors of this house are to be open to you—and they have been opened—I want to know something about you. I want to know who you are and where you came from, for one thing."

This was not a blow—it was the cold, swift thrust of a sword. Eddie winced inwardly, but he managed to conceal the pang. To cringe was impossible.

"I'm nobody, and I come from no place," he said steadily. "Without going into details, Mr. Thorndike, I think that answers your question."

The other looked at him with unwavering eye. "It does, perfectly. Also, your answer has the merit of great honesty. Another thing I want to know—again without details, if you prefer—is there anything about you, or in your record, that would make any friendship between you and Marian impossible if it were known? Do you understand what I mean?

Eddie's Mind Was Now on Edge With Alertness

Eddie's mind was now on edge with alertness. Was there, indeed, any stain on his life that barred him from a girl like Marian Thorndike? Looking back, he envisioned his spotted past. He tried to be honest. There were black marks that burned him with an inward shame. He had lived the life of his environment—but he had, he hoped, escaped in time without indelible stigma. The saving fact was that he had confessed his past to Marian—the one person most truly concerned—and she had given him absolution.

"[illegible] man," he said seriously, "[illegible] your daughter, Mr. Thorndike. That's a general statement—but I'm not trying to put anything over on her. If I felt that there was anything about me that would degrade her I'd go away and never see her again. You can believe that or not—but my word of honor goes with it."

Mr. Thorndike was silent for a [illegible]. "[illegible]," he said. "I suppose I'll have to be satisfied [illegible]. I wouldn't have talked to you in this way if her happiness were not so tremendously vital to her mother, and to me. I want you to know that the most precious object on earth to us is Marian, and that I would go to any length to insure her against catastrophe in the form of the wrong man. I'm not going to make empty threats, Mr. Regan; you have given me, I suppose, whatever assurances were possible. I'm going to let you come here occasionally—I'm going to accept you for what you seem to be and at face value; at the same time I'm going to give you a warning." Here he paused. Then—

"If, by the slightest token, you betray in any way the trust that is imposed upon you, I will settle with you myself in such manner that you will never again blight any girl's life. And now, sir, let's make this the end of such conversations between us."

Eddie spent the balance of the evening alone with Marian, but a restraint was upon him. He could not rid his mind of the velvet gloved menace of her father. It was not a matter he could discuss with her—he couldn't tell her that he had been put, virtually, upon parole.

The Old Boy Was as Hard-Boiled as Any Killer on Earth

There was no doubt in his mind, either, as to what Mr. Thorndike would do to him if the old man ever got convinced that his daughter was getting the worst of it in any way. Probably—almost certainly—he would shoot Eddie.

The old boy, despite the measured dignity of his speech, was as hard-boiled as any killer on earth. The matter involved was not only family pride, but, immeasurably greater, it involved an almost fanatic love for his daughter.

No, Eddie knew he could not discuss this with Marian. The pall upon his spirits was plainly visible.

"What did you and father talk about after dinner?"

"Oh, we just talked."

She did not press him further. He went home that night, not knowing whether he had gained or lost ground. True, he had crashed the doors of the Thorndike home, but he was still on sufferance, on quicksand. Marian, herself, no longer seemed to regard him as an unusual and fascinating specimen. Now that he was accepted into the home, he had a feeling that she looked at him casually. He was just one more young man. Even though they were alone in the house and on the veranda when he was leaving, nothing of the old palpitating spell between them was recreated.

"I'll call you up before long," he said.

"Please do, sometime," she returned, indefinitely.

Somehow, it was flat. She had previously urged him, it seemed, with a kind of desperation to make something of his life—to elevate himself above the laborers of the field. On that well-remembered night it had appeared that only his faltering status as a man had stood between them.

The mystic call of youth to youth had vibrated around them: she had admitted tremulously his love-making effect upon her; had he embodied something more than physical appeal she might have melted into his arms upon his invitation. They had been that near to the culmination of love, but the delicious madness of the night had vanished.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDY FOR GRAY HAIR OR BALDNESS

Banishes Dandruff, Eczema, Etc. Revives Youthful Lustre and Color

RESULTS AMAZING FOLKS HERE SAY

"I bought a bottle for one of the children to stop the itching rash and dandruff for which it's wonderful and using it on my own scalp I was amazed to notice my hair growing thicker, more even colored and every gray hair turned back again like magic," enthusiastically declared a lady whose beautiful head of hair is a walking advertisement to the success of Lea's Hair Tonic.

Lea's Hair Tonic has the faint odor of bay rum and contains sulphur, which as everyone knows, is a natural part of human hair, but in addition it has seven ingredients a doctor labored years to work out in his search for something harmless which one could use for years with unvarying change in the hair. He didn't want an old time dye that brings such shocking shades, ever growing worse and darker. He sought a tonic to be rubbed into the scalp and not on the hair. You can dip hair in a basin of Lea's Hair Tonic with no change in color, but rub it into the hair roots nightly a few times and watch the hair gradually resume, from root to tip, its youthful color of blonde, red, brown or black, whichever it originally was, and who can give your hair a more becoming shade than the one nature gave you first?

Applied at home with finger tips like any tonic, experts cannot detect its use. In about three applications dandruff vanishes and the scalp begins taking on a healthy tone—then the mirror whispers a little secret—you are NOT gray any more and your hair is thicker and you look years younger. Men swear by it. Prominent men and women constantly before the public wouldn't dream of [illegible] Lea's is different [illegible] except to the family, and you may, too, for druggists have Lea's Hair Tonic, or send [illegible] Lea Tonic Co., Brentwood, Md., for bottle and directions, return mail.

'Tiger Love'; The Rajah Talks With Dick Meredith

By EUSTACE HALE BALL

CHAPTER 54.

BY the time the Rajah's wounded shoulder had been re-dressed by his court physician and his latest London riding garb donned, the suave Rasta Valika was inquiring for him outside his dressing room. A servant obeyed the prince's nod, to summon him within the royal precincts. The premier was beaming with self-satisfaction. He drew his plump fingers across his throat, and then patted the pocket of his English trousers.

"A neat job, Highness, very neat. Two of my best men handled that matter after the old sinners had been taken home with the pretense of a military guard. Not a soul but Your Highness and myself and they will ever know who performed this discreet act of justice."

"They were very wicked creatures indeed," and then the Rajah smiled. "You should learn the lesson that true justice always pays someone—if it is only the hangman!"

He started for the broad marble stairway, slapping his riding boot with his crop. Rasta Valika stared after him thoughtfully. There seemed entirely too much hinting about justice, snake shooting and [illegible] to suit this sly schemer [illegible] the more wary.

"By the way, tomorrow night I entertain the white officers, their ladies and those friends of our own race who enjoy the favor of the court," observed the Rajah. "It is to be a surprising affair for all concerned, including you. Spare no expense in producing the most elaborate program of purely oriental entertainers for the function. Decorate the roof-garden of the palace more beautifully than ever before. And, of course, remember that we must not forget the choicest of our refreshments, for our British friends are not our only guests who enjoy the wines and liquors of Europe! Issue the invitations at once by special messengers."

Valika bowed. Now he regretted that he had not questioned the two old Hindus who had been so skilfully put into silence forever. Truly, his agents had robbed them of their new wealth and paid him the lion's share. Something entirely too joysome in the prince's manner and smile, some change of attitude, aroused new suspicions. Then came his big surprise.

"This Time I Think He Will Accept," Said the Rajah

"I am riding out to the bridge building camp to personally invite my American engineer," added the Rajah. "He has never accepted an invitation to my entertainments before. Like so many Yankees, 'too busy.' This time I think he will come. He deserves a little pleasure as well, for I have reports that today he has returned to the work and will have it completed within another two weeks."

Valika's jaw fell. He wondered what else had been learned. He merely bowed, however. Here was mystery. His royal master's sardonic laugh echoed from the corridor. Rasta Valika summoned Salima for a discreet questioning. She was [illegible] however [illegible] of the entertainment [illegible] had basked so luxuriously in the sunbeams of flattery paid to her as "first lady of the court" on other festive affairs. The premier went his way wondering and planning many things. Among them was a more drastic personal vengeance on the American engineer.

Dick Merdith, when the Rajah rode his thoroughbred into the camp, was as dirty, tired, irritable and busy as a construction engineer bred to executive power in American industry can be, at the climax of his work.

"He pays less attention to me than to his laborers," muttered the Rajah, reining up his horse. "He will be more interested in me than any other man in the world within another 36 hours, however."

Oriental vanity was wounded, even in the princely person of sophisticated Hamkura-Din. He waited silently, however, until Dick Meredith, satisfied with the work, checked off certain memoranda upon his handful of blue prints.

The American turned and smiled through the grime on his face.

"Highness, I've made up for a week's time in this one day's work," he said eagerly, approaching the thoughtful horseman. "Won't you jump down a minute and walk out on the bridge with me? See how far along we are now—no longer bothered with trouble makers."

The Rajah slid from the saddle to follow Meredith along the partially completed structure which crossed the surging yellow waters.

His secret jealousy [illegible] a moment [illegible] which this broad-shouldered, square-jawed young giant had achieved. He slapped Meredith upon the shoulder, as an Englishman would have done.

"It's a ripping good work, my dear fellow," and his voice was enthusiastic for the once.

"Inside another three weeks, Highness," answered Dick, boyishly proud of his conquest, "I'll have the honor of driving a locomotive across this rattling old bridge, with your Excellency sitting in the royal passenger carriage for the first ride. And in another five weeks there won't be a rattle left in the bridge or its rolling stock. I've done so many of these jobs that I know when I've got one licked. This one is just a matter of mathematics and steady labor now."

"You deserve great credit and great profit as well," the Rajah answered. "We have a [illegible] in my court which will look [illegible] when pinned to your breast, and I am sure the work will bring us profit."

"Indeed it will," chuckled Meredith. "This will be my last foreign job. Then back to the United States and settle down and . . . maybe raise a family."

The eyes of the two men met with a sudden electric shock which Meredith, at least, could not quite fathom. The Rajah's laugh dissipated the American's instinctive feeling of something amiss.

"Well, my dear chap," the Oriental character once more concealed beneath the veneer of English university training, "if it is running so smoothly, you can afford to give one evening to pleasure then. I will deem it an honor to my court if you spend tomorrow evening as my guest. Your assistants can carry on for the following morning, as I am certain that after the hospitality of an Indian Rajah with more money than he knows how to spend, you will sleep late."

Meredith shook his head.

"I'm afraid I can't, Highness. My present [illegible] the honor of an American engineer in fulfilling the contract ahead of time. That counts more than champagne and dancing just now."

"But there will be beautiful women who will soothe the furrows of your heart and smoothe the wrinkles of your soul. The ladies of the foreign colony here . . . beautiful English ladies and those from other European lands, who share the same modern thoughts as you . . . and who dance divinely. . . . I know, my dear chap, for I have entertained here in Abadipur these many years."

"I'm not interested in beautiful English ladies or those from other lands, either, Excellency," bluntly replied Meredith, accepting a cigarette from the jeweled holder held out by the amused Rajah.

"I will have magicians, fakirs as you moderns from the West call them, snake charmers, musicians whose weird [illegible] will stir unknown depths within you. At this little surprise affair of mine, conceived only today in a whimsical mood, I will have dancers of my own country, who will sweep your soul with barbaric passions of which you have never dreamed."

The intensity of the well modulated voice of the prince brought a suspicion to the American's mind, a warning from within. He looked up sharply, then laughed.

"The last time you and I watched native dancing," he retorted between puffs of smoke, "it came near being the end of us both. It did cause the death of two undesirables, and Maj. Melville is wondering what became of his beautiful Russian governess. . . . I had to give him a brutal hint today that she might not have been quite as good a companion for his daughters as he fancied. . . . Then he made inquiries of old Chang Tu, that fat Chinese dragon who guards his home. He asked me no more questions. . . . At least, that kind of native dancing is too dangerous for [illegible]

"But perhaps you have never had any closer experience in our land than this rough railroad work, and do not know its beauties as I do," said the Rajah.

Meredith's face became serious and his brows knit; the prince was watching covertly. The American was silent.

"You have never seen this lovely land with the eyes of youth, as I have done, nor listened to its birds so different from those of England or America . . . All you may have seen are the dirty coolies who work for you, the bored whites who long only to return to their native lands as they toil for money, such vulgar hospitality as we saw in that vile place last night," continued the Rajah softly. "One must have spent boyhood days in India to have learned its sweetest secrets."

Meredith's eyes closed for an instant and then he stared at his royal companion . . . to laugh in that un[illegible] half the charm of his personality.

"But that's the joke of it, Highness. I did spend my boyhood here. [illegible] took me back to the States and sent me to a hard-grinding preparatory school, before I entered the technical studies . . . It was all romance, flowers, elephants, pagodas, images of the Buddhist deities, old temples, winding trails through the jungle, weird music from travelling beggars . . . Why, even the strange dances of the women were wonderful in my innocent recollections . . ."

"What!" and how well the Rajah covered his inner satisfaction with a pretense of amazement. "You were born here—in India."

"Not born here, but brought as a tiny youngster to [illegible] province, Highness! My father was an American medical minister, coming to teach better sanitation as well as better living. I remembered it all so well that I gave up a very easy contract in America [illegible] heard of this opening—[illegible] cult task. I had never [illegible] this before. I wanted to surprise [illegible] complete the bridge."

"I Didn't Have the Heart to Do It," Meredith Declared

"Almost impossible!" the Rajah declared softly. "And did you hunt up the village?"

Meredith shook his head sadly.

"No, I didn't have the heart to do it. My father told me that shortly after we returned to our own country some close friends who had been our neighbors were slain by a tiger. A jolly British colonel and his wife, with a dear little girl who was just learning to talk. A Colonel Gay[illegible] see that place again. But I [illegible] after a tiger the first chance I had, to square the account, and I got him. Oh, but it's a baby story. I sent the skin back to my folks—without the story, though."

[illegible] used to go hunting with Colonel Gaylord and also got a tiger skin one day? A tiger which the same poor colonel killed?"

"Of course, now, I remember it well, but my father and mother were so horrified by it all that they never discussed it since my boyhood and I forgot that. And my God! You were that young man!"

"My heart was broken when I learned of the murder of—all three of them. The little child who used to kiss me so sweetly," said the Rajah. "We've much in common to talk about. Well now, Mr. Meredith, will you come to my truly Hindu party tomorrow night?"

"You bet I will!" came the enthusiastic American response.

DOCTOR GAVE HER MIXTURE TO STOP COUGHING SPELLS

SAW HER DOCTOR

"Our old doctor met me on the street and [illegible] coughed every minute or so. I told him 25c cough remedies did no good and I couldn't take cod liver oil. He laughed and wrote down the name 'Linonine' and told me it was a nice-tasting Flaxseed mixture with Eucalyptus, etc., far better than Cod Liver Oil and quicker.

WONDERFUL RESULTS

"Only the bigger downtown stores had Linonine, but it's worth going miles to get. My cough loosened up and vanished almost like magic. Since then a dozen friends who were wheezing and coughing around have taken Linonine and even the kids in the neighborhood like to take it when they get a cough or cold. It builds you up, too."

A cough is a nasty, annoying thing to have and dangerous, too, this time of year. A 50c or $1.00 bottle at home does the work. Well stocked druggists have Linonine, made by the nationally known Kerr Chemical Co.

CURLY COIFFURES

By MARIA JERITZA

THERE is nothing more dear to the average feminine heart than a change in fashions now and then. And this love of variety applies most decidedly to the way she wears her hair.

For several years now, women have [illegible] the bob, have enjoyed its convenience and novelty, [illegible] to long hair. But while the close bob or shingle is [illegible] at the sides and front, [illegible] with it by way of [illegible] at the back of the head. [illegible] of [illegible] grows [illegible]

Happily, a [illegible] has been hit upon by clever [illegible] in the form of the long bob or shoulder-length tresses. This style permits endless variations and shoulder-length hair is not much more trouble to shampoo, brush and arrange than our old friend the shingle.

The woman with curly locks has been at a distinct disadvantage in these days of carefully smoothed out waves. Now that curly curls, standing out from the head, have come back into favor, she will once more rejoice in her naturally rebellious and upstanding crown of glory.

A friend of mine with curly hair achieves a lovely effect by means of the brush curl. Whenever she shampoos the hair—and this happens about once a week—she forms it into curls while it is still damp. She shapes strand after strand, over one finger, smoothes it with a stiff hairbrush, then lets it dry in curl.

The effect is youthful and lovely when she combs out her curls—a welcome change from flat ringlets and waves. It will take some time to let your back hair grow long enough to make satisfactory curls. But your hair dresser will help the process by shaping the neckline neatly for you when he trims your hair, without shingling it. In this way you will gradually achieve an even growth of hair, which is needed for best results with the long bob.

The permanent wave also takes a [illegible], for permanently waved hair is in effect naturally curly hair while the wave lasts. If you do not feel equal to managing the brush curl yourself, ask your hair dresser to try the effect of it on your hair when next you visit your favorite beauty parlor.

She will probably begin the curling process immediately after your shampoo before your hair even begins to dry. Starting at the crown of your head, she will take inch squares, brush each strand over her finger into a puff and pin it in place. Tiny, stray ringlets she may curl over a lead pencil. Having given you a veritable cap of curls she will pin a veil loosely over your head and let your hair dry under the radiant lamp. After half an hour or less, she will comb out your tresses into lovely marcel waves while the ends will fall into fluffy curls.

Whether it be administered by yourself at home, or professionally, I commend to your attention the novelty and charm of the brush curl for your hair.

MYSTERY STORY

The Police Commissioner looked his enemy right in the eye.

For Tardy Readers—Who is the jeweled woman over whose body the Detective Lieutenant stumbled while engaged in an argument with the Police Commissioner?

CHAPTER TWO

Silently, the two men glared at each other. The Commissioner extracted a cigar from his bulging vest pocket, scratched it on the sole of his shoe, and nonchalantly bit the end off a match.

The Detective Lieutenant, tall and handsome, proffered his cigar lighter and then tossed it into the handsome self-righting brass goboon, which swayed eerily in time with the ticking of the clock. Finally the Commissioner broke the silence, saying—

[illegible]

In a flash the men were at each other's throats. They locked arms, swayed and then—

BAER FACTS

by Arthur "Bugs" Baer

THE Jersey rabbit season is open.

Result—Jersey children losing their pet bunnies.

When a Jersey rabbit assassin struts forth to shoot rabbits he shoots 'em.

He shoots 'em out of trees, stews and bird and dog stores.

The biggest bag of all was when a Jersey shooter shot seven rabbits out of an ermine coat in a window.

The Maine moose season is also stepping full blast.

There are very favorable reports for aim is bad and guides are plentiful.

Mr. Coolidge's quail shoot in Virginia was successful. It kept the President in the open air and gave the quail a chance to snatch some sleep.

But the Maine moose soldiers follow a different system. They keep popping away in [illegible] until something drops.

A timber tourist with a gun is a dangerous client.

Even one of the Royal Northwest Mounted in a red coat only saved his life after a long argument with a squad of our moose detectives.

He finally convinced the forest band is that moose weren't dressing that way this year.

For the benefit of unschooled moose guerrillas we wish to state that a moose is an animal with horns on his head. When you shoot at him he runs away and doesn't stop to appoint a substitute to the office.

He looks just as nice on the wall as a hunter does on the floor. Moose hunting is an elimination tournament between hunters.

And we are sorry to say that the moose always seems to draw the bye.

HUNTING A PANACEA

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

AUGUSTINE LUMIERE in his book on "Life, Disease and Death" points out a new route to the Fountain of Youth, lying through the mysteries of the [illegible] theory of life. [illegible] the universal [illegible] excepting the [illegible] and the so-called [illegible] of the living organism, [illegible] consist of an [illegible] in which [illegible] microscopic particles [illegible] of various [illegible] minute masses of chemical molecules.

Now "the intensity of the reactions that take place within the colloids of living matter, [illegible] in other words [illegible] exchanges, depend upon the extent of the surfaces of contact of the elements concerned. With equal weight these surfaces are larger in proportion as the dimensions of the masses are smaller."

As the individual organism increases in age, the size of the [illegible] increases, and consequently the surfaces of the contact progressively diminish, bringing about weakening of the powers of [illegible] tion, the beginning of senility and the imminence of death.

At certain times a [illegible] for [illegible] lation, or [illegible] takes place in the organic [illegible]. This phenomenon, a [illegible] "anaphylaxy" of the [illegible] which is the reverse of immunization. In anaphylaxy a poison [illegible] kill an animal in normal [illegible] may have a fatal effect if the [illegible] has previously been inoculated [illegible] the same substance. In trying to explain this "sensitizing substances" were invented, the opposite of the "protective substances" invoked to account for immunity.

But Lumiere affirms that [illegible] hypotheses are unnecessary [illegible] flocculates formed [illegible] alone suffice to explain [illegible] troubles by the irritation which they cause to the sympathetic nervous system. All sorts of shocks, to which so many maladies may be [illegible]

Stock Fall Swiftest Ever; Business May Not Be Hurt

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—Very harshly it has been brought home to many that they really were suffering from speculative delirium tremens. When the writer sounded the warning, "The higher they rise the harder they fall," he was deluged with ridicule. One anonymous critic has been sending either sarcastic or scurrilous comments almost daily, finally suggesting an insane asylum as a fit place for the writer of this column. No communications have been received since Wednesday.

Thursday's collapse was the worst the New York Stock Exchange ever witnessed in one day in its history. Friday brought fresh demoralization. So did Saturday.

This table shows how severely stocks have collapsed in the last week:

That is not a pleasant picture. It represents untold heartaches. Thousands upon thousands of innocents, swallowing all the childish nonsense so freely published, rushed into the gambling maelstrom, confident that the predictions of unlimited profits would be realized.

Already many have doubtless lost their all.

What is likely to happen next?

The writer believes that many stocks are still selling far too high.

It is the writer's opinion that the 7½ to 7¾ rate for time money will be corrected, and also that speculators will shortly cease to be eager to pay 10 per cent or more for day-to-day loans.

Between now and the first week in January, however, there may be further fireworks in money rates. Indeed, responsible bankers are quite uneasy over the dangerous possibilities—a fact which has been repeatedly made known here.

The question sober citizens are asking is, "Will Wall Street upset general business and employment?" This will depend upon how far the debacle in stock prices goes. The writer fears that business and employment will not entirely escape the unusual influence of events in the stock market.

But, happily, industry and business have not been inflated, have not been overboomed. Outside of Wall Street, conditions are on an exceptionally solid basis and should not be seriously affected.

INVENTIONS IN DEMAND IN WALL ST.

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

Reports persist that the Diesel engine will make its appearance in passenger automobiles within a few months. No official statement to this effect has yet been forthcoming. The move would be revolutionary. The advantages of a Diesel engine are that it uses the cheapest of oils, needs no carburetors, magnetos or spark plugs and abolishes the danger of fire.

The type of Diesel engine well known here, which I first saw many years ago at Fore River, is of course too heavy and perhaps too sluggish for passenger automobile use. But lightness, quickness and flexibility could easily have come as the result of secret research laboratory work, such as the larger automotive plants constantly carry on. A German-made Diesel-driven truck is already on the road. It burns crude oil that "over there" costs from six to eight cents a gallon.

* * *

The gasoline-taxing legislators will have to change the levy to crude oil in the days when, if ever, that displaces gasoline.

In this column we have pointed out from time to time that modern inventions are very much in demand in Wall Street. We have cited scores of issues raised to big earning power by such inventions. The automotive industry, mightiest of all time, is the product of hundreds of combined inventions. We hear one of the film companies is working on an invention to adapt the stereoscope idea to the screen, making the figures more lifelike. The impression of perspective and relief would surely add much to the silver screen.

The stereoscope was invented in 1838 by Sir Charles Wheatstone, Gloucester Eng., professor. Wheatstone also invented the concertina and was co-inventor of the first electric telegraph in England in 1837. This was two years after Samuel Finley Breese Morse of Charlestown had perfected a working application of electro-magnetism to telegraphy. Morse won international fame as an artist, but today is principally remembered because of his invention of the telegraph.

Telegram of Leonard J. Raymond, chairman of the committee on postal facilities of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, to Senator Francis E. Warren, recalls that plans for extension of pneumatic mail tubes to the Back Bay station were exclusively revealed in this column several months ago. At the time mention was made of this feature in connection with a study of American Pneumatic, listed on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Mr. Raymond's wire to the chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations follows: "Understand question extension pneumatic mail tubes to Back Bay Station comes before Senate Committee on Appropriations today. Development of Back Bay district as business center proceeding rapidly. Under present conditions mail for district from railway stations must be carried through congested centers of city. Extension of mail tubes to Back Bay would greatly benefit service in Boston. Strongly urge that appropriation for this service be placed in Postal Appropriation Bill."

Mr. Raymond also sent the following telegram to First Assistant Postmaster General John H. Bartlett: "Understand question extension pneumatic mail tubes to Back Bay Station before Senate Appropriations Committee today. We feel this extension would be distinct benefit to mail service as mail from railroad terminals to Back Bay district must now be carried through congested parts of city. We hope you will be able to use your influence in securing this extension."

* * *

As an ever-good friend of the Boston postal service, Gen. Bartlett, former Governor of New Hampshire, can be depended upon to do all he can to improve the service. He has been heartily in favor of the mail tubes.

* * *

Boston Elevated employes are mostly "on the job," General Manager Edward Dana says: "A few weeks ago a car operator, when putting up his car after midnight, noted smoke coming from an El manhole nearby. Realizing that the smoke probably indicated underground trouble he immediately notified an official, who, in turn, through the night clerk, called the wire and conduit division of the power department. A crew was on the job practically immediately and found that a grounded cable was causing water in the manhole to steam. If the trouble had not been discovered promptly the cable would have become short circuited and considerable delay to service might have resulted.

* * *

"This incident illustrates the interest in the reliability of the service which a large majority of the 'El' employes have and which should be universal over the system. The trite old saying, 'a stitch in time saves nine' applies most aptly in the electric railway business. We aim to sell dependable service. Every possible means must be taken to keep the service dependable. Delay is not only an inconvenience to the public but is long and unfavorably remembered. Let's be constantly on the watch for trifles which might if undetected, produce serious results."

SPA STOCK IS TO BE OFFERED IN BOSTON

Thompson's Spa is contemplating formation of a new corporation to take over assets of the present partnership. A new stock issue aggregating several millions of dollars will be publicly offered shortly by Boston investment bankers, says the Boston News Bureau. This will be the first opportunity for public participation in the ownership of this 46-year-old Boston institution.

In addition to the present establishment on Washington st. and branch stores on Summer st. and 1 Washington st., the new corporation will own a new building at 13-23 South st., which it intends to open as a restaurant. This building will have a seating capacity of 300 persons, shortly to be increased to 600, which would be a capacity equal to about 60 per cent of the present Washington st. restaurant.

The business of Thompson Spa was founded on September 1, 1882, by the late Charles E. Eaton. His death occurred in 1917 and from that time on the business has been carried on and extended by his three sons, Ezra S., Malcolm H. and Charles F. Eaton. A substantial majority of the common stock of the new corporation will be owned by these individuals.

The business has grown entirely from earnings. It began as a one-counter proposition, from which 3-cent cups of coffee were dispensed, and has grown to the present large establishment employing approximately 1000 persons and where it is estimated over 25,000 patrons are served daily.

It is expected that the details of the capitalization of the new corporation and the public offering of its securities will be made available within the next few days.

HUB STORE IN MERGER

BIG JORDAN MARSH CO. DEAL

The merger is regarded as a step significant of a new era of American retailing. The new organization, even at its inception, will rank among the largest retailing enterprises in the country. In line with this huge program, the corporation has amended its charter to provide for an authorized capitalization consisting of $60,000,000 of 6½ per cent convertible preferred stock, of which $23,000,000 is to be outstanding and 5,000,000 shares of common stock, of which 1,284,000 shares are to be outstanding.

TELLS OF STORE

"The Jordan Marsh Co.," says Mitton's statement, "has for many years been the greatest and most outstanding department store in New England. In the 78 years of the store's history, it has always been successful and its success and outlook never were greater than they are today.

"The owners of the business have had no desire to dispose of their interests although opportunities for sales have been abundant. In announcing our decision to enter into a consolidation with a large number of other successful stores throughout the United States, we are answering the demand of the future for better retailing so that we may serve the public of New England through an even more efficient system of distribution than heretofore."

Through this merger the Jordan Marsh Company will enjoy, with the other successful stores which join them in the consolidation, a tremendously increased buying power, an interchanging of managing and merchandising ideas and experience, the opportunity of centralized buying on a large scale, and many other economies and efficiencies which are open in this field only through the pooling of large scale resources and experience, all of which must inevitably tend towards lower prices and more efficient service to its customers.

The Jordan Marsh Company will remain the Jordan Marsh Company. The consolidation will in no way interfere with the free and independent operation of the store, nor will it affect the personnel of its executives and fellow-workers. The management will remain exactly the same as at present, and George W. Mitton will remain president of the Jordan Marsh Company, and in addition will be chairman of the board of directors of the Hahn Department Stores, Inc.

BUSINESS NOT SOLD

The business of Jordan Marsh Company has not been sold but the merger is in effect an interchanging of stocks with all the other important stores in this group. Our patrons will find in our store exactly the same reliable merchandise and the same courteous and efficient service which they have always enjoyed.

Jordan Marsh Company has entered into this merger of leading department stores because it believes that the future makes a demand upon the retailing system of the country, which can best be met by the merging of a large number of carefully selected stores of representative character.

The greatest field of business opportunity in the world is the retail trade. The total volume at retail far exceeds in importance the total business of any other industry. The total sales at retail in the United States, according to statistics, amount to the stupendous sum of 40 billion dollars annually.

Not only is the retail trade the greatest business in the country but it is the final step in bringing together the products of almost every industry and the consumers who require these goods in their daily lives.

In numerous other fields the benefits that have come from the merging of large interests have been unmistakable. A comparatively few years ago there were no very large concerns engaged in the steel industry. Today the United States Steel Corporation is one of the world's greatest enterprises.

Within the lives of most of us, we have seen the automobile business change from a few scattered independent companies to a field in which a great corporation like General Motors offers an inspiring example to all other manufacturers. The process of consolidation has been going on in scores of industries. It was inevitable that it should come to this great retail field.

HEADS NEW BOARD

Hahn Department Stores, Inc., of which Jordan Marsh Co. becomes an important part, will operate leading department stores in all parts of the United States.

It is expected that through a steady process of merging additional stores, together with the natural growth of the businesses, that in a comparatively short period of years the sales volume of this combination will aggregate $1,000,000,000.

The individual stores will continue to operate under their own names and without disruption of the managements or organizations which have made them successful. The store executives will own a substantial amount of the common stock of Hahn Department Stores, Inc.

Mr. Lew Hahn, formerly managing director of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, is the president of the new corporation, and Mr. George W. Mitton, president of Jordan Marsh Co., is to be chairman of the board of directors. The central organization will be located in New York and will be concerned with the co-ordination of buying activities, the development of more efficient methods, and the sound expansion of the group, as favorable opportunities arise.

The New York firms of Lehman Brothers and Prince & Whitely will handle the financing of this great enterprise.

BUSINESS GROWN

The history of Jordan Marsh Company is too well known to the New England public to need any detailed statement concerning same. It will be interesting to note that in the past 50 years its volume of retail business has increased 1115 per cent and the floor space has increased from 81,000 square feet to 850,000 square feet, or 950 per cent, in addition to which floor space storage warehouses, manufacturing departments, service stations and garages of approximately 600,000 square feet have been added.

Jordan Marsh Company believes this merger to be the greatest and most progressive step that has been taken by it in the 78 years of its history, not only for the future of its business but for the benefit of its customers.

In addition to the Jordan Marsh and C. F. Hovey Company, the other stores involved are located in the following cities: Minneapolis, Minn.; Seattle, Wash.; St. Paul, Minn.; Cincinnati, O.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Dallas, Tex.; Baltimore, Md.; Paterson, N. J.; Akron, O.; Columbus, O.; Waterloo, Ia.; Lincoln, Neb.; Greensboro, N. C.; Jackson, Mich.; Lake Charles, La.; Greensburg, Pa.; Lebanon, Pa.; Columbus, O., and Connellsville, Pa.

McARTHUR CO. IN NEW STORE

The Arthur McArthur Company's new store, now open at 19-25 Stuart st., continues the tradition of one of the oldest business firms in Boston.

Arthur McArthur, at the age of 87, is not taking active part in the management of the present store, but the policies which he established more than 60 years ago are still strictly in effect.

McArthur's first store was opened on Essex st., in 1868.

Later the firm occupied buildings on Hanover st., Cornhill and Adams sq.

The imperative need of more room forced the company to take over the six-story building on Stuart st. last July. Mahogany panelling and indirect lighting make a restful symphony on the ground flood.

Radio and living room furniture departments are on the street floor, and other furniture departments are located on the floors above.

The business is now carried on by McArthur's three sons, Chester C., William E. and Arthur McArthur, Jr.

Farm Experts Speak for Co-operatives

Chicago, Dec. 11 (AP)—Farm experts praised co-operative marketing in the cotton, tobacco and livestock industries in speeches today before the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

George H. Duncan, New Hampshire tax expert, said the farmers' problem was not one of over-production, but of under consumption. He said excessively high taxes reduced the nation's purchasing power.

In the tobacco industry, it was predicted by J. C. Stone, Lexington, Ky., president of the Burley Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association, that farm surpluses eventually would be eliminated by co-operative organizations.

"BOSSY" MAKES DEBUT ON STAGE

From the prison laundry to the footlights in ten days.

For such a statement to apply to the ordinary man would be out of the ordinary, but in this case it applies to an extraordinary man, about whom a lot more extraordinary statements might be made.

This man is Bossy Gillis, who might be chronicled as the mayor of Newburyport, but who is now appearing at the Majestic Theater, and who made his debut—as usual—in an extraordinary manner.

Ten days ago he was scrubbing clothes in Salem jail. Tonight he goes on again at the Majestic, and he will probably pull something to make up for a few "boners" that marked his first night.

He came in the front door instead of the stage door for his first mistake. Then he took a rap at those in his audience who had seen fit to laugh when his introducer had predicted that some time he might be a big man. And he had to be prodded off the stage at the end of his three minutes alloted time.

But such errors are common among first-night performers, so tonight they are expected to see a finished and polished Thespian, of the Gillisian style, step out between acts of the Connecticut Yankee and show them how the role should be played if the Yank had lived in Newburyport.

CUT PRICE OF FRIGIDAIRE

With the Edison Electric Co. co-operating with the sales organization of the Boston Frigidaire agency, the latter announced today a new and strikingly reduced scale of prices on its line of household refrigerator models.

Initial payments on Frigidaire equipment are now to be smaller, and special Christmas terms go into effect at once.

"An unprecedented increase of business following the introduction of the new Frigidaire models in August made the price reductions possible," according to the Frigidaire company's New England distribution manager, H. W. Newell, who has just returned to Boston from Frigidaire headquarters, Dayton, O.

"The American buying public's approval of the latest Frigidaire designs has placed the enormous Frigidaire factories on a springtime production basis throughout the fall when normally the output would drop off," said Mr. Newell's statement of today.

The quietness of the new Frigidaires is one of their outstanding improvements, according to selling department heads. Price reductions afford savings amounting to as much as $105 on a single model.

Dodge Furnishes Buses in Detroit

Following a decision of the Michigan supreme court banning independent jitney buses from the streets of Detroit, the Detroit department of street railways has just placed with Dodge Brothers Corporation orders for 120 16-passenger motor coaches, the Henshaw Motor Co. of Boston announced today.

The big machines will supply the service which was previously given by the jitneys.

Detroit has already operated Graham coaches over a total distance of more than $4,500,000 miles, according to a Dodge Corporation bulletin.

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

The 8-Hour Day

Mr. Gifford's Amendment Would Give Congress the Power to Establish It in ALL the States

In Charles L. Gifford of Cotuit the Sixteenth Congressional District appears to have a representative who, as is sometimes said of the eager and willing baseball player, is "always trying."

Mr. Gifford's latest is the organization of Northeastern members of Congress behind a proposed amendment to the Constitution permitting Congress to regulate the hours and conditions of labor.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to establish uniform hours throughout the United States. Such a law would remove the handicap imposed by backward regions upon more progressive sections.

Only a few weeks ago, the Cape Cod member invited his colleagues of the Massachusetts delegation to meet with him at New Bedford, for the purpose of discussing the condition of the cotton textile trade. They heard several witnesses and, while no definite program emerged, the conference broke up with every conferree determined to do everything in his power to help an industry upon which so many thousands are dependent.

The Cape Cod man believes ONE of the measures necessary to bring the cotton industry back to normalcy is a Federal hours-of-labor bill. He realizes that a long and hard fight is ahead before such a revolutionary proposal can be submitted to the State Legislatures, but apparently he is ready to make it.

Year after year, the opponents of some of the labor laws of Massachusetts, and in particular those laws affecting the hours of labor of women and minors, have said at the State House that the Bay State should mark time until other States are ready to take the same advanced position.

The amendment to the Constitution proposed by Mr. Gifford would place all the States upon the same level. If this is what New England employers want they should give the Cape Cod Congressman hearty support.

Ladies of 75, Attention!

Gaze a Moment on Lily Langtry

LADY DE BATHE, THE "LOVELY LILY," IN HER SEVENTY-FIFTH YEAR

The little picture in this column shows you how Lily Langtry looked, at the height of her beauty, fifty years ago.

LILY LANGTRY, FIFTY YEARS AGO

The picture above shows this wonderful woman, now Lady De Bathe, born on the Island of Jersey, much admired by Edward Seventh of England when he was Prince of Wales, as she looks now, seventy-five years old.

Lady De Bathe, well received, much liked and SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD, still retains her fine complexion and everything important of her original beauty.

Ladies of seventy-five, older and younger, take notice.

A woman can do WHAT SHE WANTS TO DO, and be young, if she will—and without painful, silly face lifting.

Let's Stop This!

A beauty shop advertises "marcels and finger waving."

The marcels are all right, but it is a question whether the girls ought to be taught finger waving.

There is something subtle and dangerous and irresistible in the sound of it.

The girls are attractive enough as it is. The Mayor, or the Governor, or Congress, or whoever can do anything about it should put a foot down on the new art of finger waving.

Already we have finger crooking and wrapping him around the finger. That's enough scope for a single weapon.

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—Just as Josephine Baker, dusky singer of chansonettes, became a Parisian sensation, so has Paul Robeson, the colored actor and singer, triumphed in London this season. News comes to Broadway he scored the most brilliant success of any player over there.

In England, Robeson finds no racial prejudice. He is piloted to the best tables in cafes, invited to select Mayfair drawing rooms and becomes the guest of honor in the night cibbs. Already America wants him back and Equity is deciding a dispute over his contract.

He was suspended for a month and there were whispers that he might be barred from the American stage. Up in Harlem his own people are anxious for his return, not particularly to prove conscientious scruples but because he is the outstanding and best beloved figure of his race.

Along Lenox ave. he is king. Crowds tag his heels in the manner of a prize fight champion parading Broadway. While his fame as an actor grows, he is best known to the Black Belt as a singer. He sings instinctively, having had but a few lessons. His concerts took Europe by storm some years ago.

Robeson is the bronze of copper with the figure of an Apollo and is [illegible] years old. He was graduated in law at Columbia, but he seemed born for the footlights and turned his back on Blackstone early. He is married to a Spanish colored woman, also a graduate of Columbia.

His first conspicuous stage success was in O'Neill's "All God's Chillun Got Wings." Negroes say he is the only public singer correctly to sing their moving spirituals. He leaves them wet-eyed and moaning. His salary in England is reputed to be $1200 a week.

While this is more money than he has ever made it does not top the salary list of colored entertainers. Florence Mills at the peak of her earning power shortly before she died received $1750. And Bill Robinson, a feather-footed tap dancer, draws $1500 this season on Broadway.

PERHAPS no ball player was so heckled last season as young Andy Cohen. Yet he came through with colors flying and proved the first Jewish diamond star with a distinct box office following. His amiable good humor was a remarkable and clinching asset, and he met the bleacher taunts with an expansive grin. At the Polo Grounds one day a fog-horned umpire screeched: "Cohen batting for Malone." And a bleacherite boomed: "Casey leaving the park." And Cohen doubled up with laughter.

OVERHEARD in a theater lobby:

A CORRESPONDENT writes me the innumerable Apple Marys who peddle fruit and candy from office to office in downtown sky scrapers and who were mentioned in this space recently were brought into activity by the late Russell Sage. His daily luncheon was an apple brought to him by a woman conducting a corner fruit stand. She began to sell to others. And thus the business grew.

• • •

THE venerable sellers who hawk pretzels from spiked sticks have only one profitable market, and that is around Brooklyn Bridge. No one knows why there are few sales elsewhere! Every once in a while the peddlers journey northward with their twisted, salted and shellacked wares, but eventually they come back to the Bridge.

AFTER the same fashion the old-time candy lollipop on a stick has only one market. This is among the apartment houses on upper Broadway.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

DO you think with your "insides"—

Or do you think with your brain?

Do you think as a brute?

Or do you think as a man?

Brutes think with their "insides" —their viscera.

Actually they do not think at all. They react to their own internal chemistry.

When a brute is frightened or angered or excited certain things happen to the many glands of its body. Some glands stop functioning pro tem—other glands increase their action. The liver becomes livelier or duller. Certain secretions are thrown into the blood stream. The heart action is increased or diminished. And the brute acts in accordance with its own chemistry.

It acts as its kidneys, spleen, thyroid and adrenal glands and other "insides" tell it to act. It really doesn't think at all, any more than a jumping jack thinks when you pull the strings. It is at the mercy of its insides.

Many animals who consider themselves human beings, also do their thinking with their insides.

People who can't control their tempers aren't bossing their own lives—they're being bossed by their adrenal glands.

People who are continually being swayed by fear, hate, suspicion, desire, greed, conceit—aren't functioning above their ears. Nine-tenths of their action is controlled by their own bellies.

Our world is filled with animals who walk on their hind legs and wear pants or petticoats, but whose thought processes are not a particle more civilized than a baboon's.

These people are responsible for the lynchings and whippings which disgrace our country—the bigotry and stupidity and graft which hamper our Government. They are, in reality, greedy, cruel, cowardly, stupid brutes, at the mercy of their own insides.

Real intelligence doesn't allow itself to be controlled by "insides." It opposes human thought to brute chemistry.

The truly civilized man may feel anger or hysteria being poured into his blood stream by his adrenal glands, but he doesn't surrender to his blood stream. He loathes such surrender to the brute and he fights that anger or hysteria with reason, self-respect, caution, humor and all the other attributes of his intelligence.

Of course, none of us are completely masters of our insides, as yet. But we are learning the truth about those insides and we are realizing that, before we can honestly call ourselves men, we must master them.

Calling on the Trade

by Herbert Kaufman

Mr. Hoover is "calling on the trade."

He makes the South American trip to survey markets on which we must increasingly depend as outlets for surplus production.

The lower half of the continent is a producer of raw materials, not fabrications.

Europe is a competitive manufacturer and, to a certain degree, Asia also.

But Latin-America is without industrial skill or resources. Her wealths are in plantations, mines and herds. She must import the bulk of necessities and utilities. She purchases clothes and shoes, furniture and machinery, linens and sanitary supplies, structural steel, rolling stock, automobiles and newsprint.

And Mr. Hoover has gone to strengthen the bond between our exporters and neighboring merchants.

The President-elect has added sales-management to executive functions.

Tradition may frown upon the adventure. But tradition always frowns when precedent is fired for incpmpetence.

And precedent is always incompetent to deal with new conditions.

Present day spirit has no patience with empty dignities. Even England, the last great stronghold of Royalty, is keeping the Prince of Wales on the road to hold the big buyers in line.

The grand lamas of business and statesmanship no longer sit in the crypts of the Temple.

"V" VERSES by Herbert Kaufman — Vim Vigor Victory

You had a show, but were too slow,
Tomorrow'll bring another, though.
Success holds auction every day.
Don't throw the next big chance away
Through hesitation. Bid the price;
Procrastination must pay twice.
Delay compounds the final cost.
Time knows how many times you've lost;

Boston American's Policies For Boston-New England

FOR BOSTON:

1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

FOR NEW ENGLAND:

1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Procrastination must pay twice.
Delay compounds the final cost.
Time knows how many times you've lost;
The clock's a mint and minutes gold;
What's promptly bought is cheaply sold.
It's ten to one, your worst mistake
Lay in some risk you wouldn't take.

Boston American's Policies For Boston-New England

FOR BOSTON:

1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

FOR NEW ENGLAND:

1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.
